

Ike Joins Nixon, Lodge in Dramatic Drive for Votes

President Says GOP Ticket Offers 'Best Leadership Available Today'

NEW YORK (AP) — President Eisenhower took to the political hustings with Vice President Nixon and Henry Cabot Lodge today in a dramatic late-campaign bid to help them capture metropolitan votes.

The group teamed for the first time at campaign rallies spread over a wide area in and around New York City.

NEW YORK (AP) — The Republican rally in New York's coliseum tonight will be telecast by The National Broadcasting Co. from 7:30 to 8 p.m. local time. Participants include President Eisenhower, Vice President Richard M. Nixon, the Republican presidential nominee, and Henry Cabot Lodge, the vice presidential nominee.

New York City. Their fast-paced hop, skip and jump tour was by helicopter.

The kick-off took place in mid-morning at the giant Roosevelt Field Shopping Center in Nassau County, adjoining the eastern boundary of New York City on Long Island. From there they whirled to Westchester County north of the city. Both these areas are heavily Republican.

The appearance of the president and the GOP candidates for president and vice president in the suburban spots, plus later gatherings in Manhattan, was obviously an effort to garner as many stray votes as possible to offset the great Democratic weight in New York City.

Best Leadership

Eisenhower told a throng gathered in the sunny but windy outdoor area of Roosevelt field that Nixon and Lodge offer the nation "the finest type of leadership today that is available to the nation."

Police estimated the crowd on the field at 50,000. In Westchester County, where the candidates spoke from a platform at the county airport, officers put the figure at 25,000. In both places there were great cheers for the president and others.

Cuba Says It Can Abolish Lease on Navy Stronghold

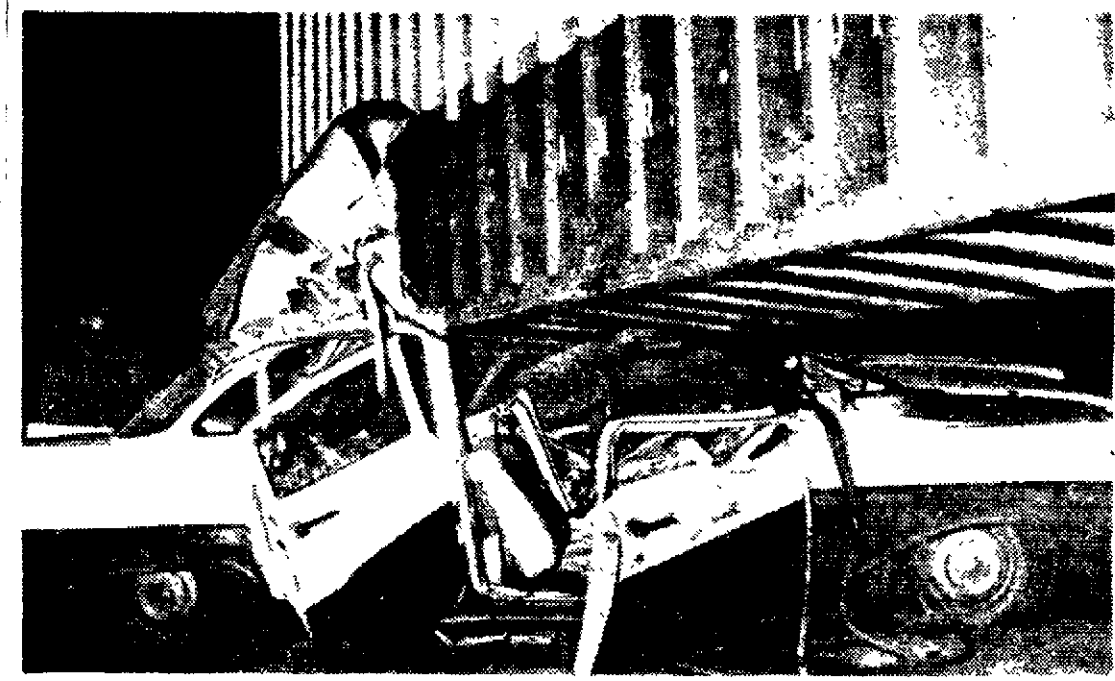

Sharp Reply To Ike's View On Situation

HAVANA (AP) — Cuban President Osvaldo Dorticos, in a sharp reply to President Eisenhower, implied last night that the U.S. lease on the naval base at Guantanamo can be abrogated by the Cuban people without United States consent.

President Eisenhower, in a statement yesterday, said the United States would take "whatever steps may be appropriate" to defend the base. He said the U.S. lease could be terminated or changed only by mutual agreement of the United States and Cuba.

Justify Aggression Dorticos, in a speech to presidential palace employees, said Eisenhower's statement was designed "to justify armed aggression against our country" and supported the claims of Cuba's revolutionary regime that Washington is planning a faked incident at Guantanamo as a pretext for military action.

Eisenhower's contention that the lease could be changed or ended only by an accord between the two countries, the Cuban president continued, made it appear can't stand up to the American people, if he won't come and inspect the territory of Cuba, an

Another accident at Green Bay killed a Manitowoc woman. Erbe was the first embalmer in New Holstein. He was active in Masonic, municipal political and business affairs.

He was killed when his car skidded broadside into the path of a car driven by Mrs. Alois Halbach Sr., 52, route 2, Chilton. The Halbach car struck the Erbe car, crushing the left side and throwing Erbe out of the right side door as the car spun after the crash.

Proposed Budget to Hike Tax Rate $2

Final Levy to be Decided At Public Hearing Nov. 15

BY REINHART WESSING Post-Crescent Staff Writer

A $2 hike in Appleton's tax rate for city and school purposes will be necessary if the proposed 1961 budget adopted by the council Tuesday remains unchanged.

If all departmental budgets had been approved as submitted, the rate boost would have been $2.65 per $1,000 of assessed valuation. The budget committee whittled that down to $1.10 by cutting spending and increasing anticipated income.

But Tuesday the council, sitting as a committee - of the - whole to study the budget group's recommendations - increased proposed spending by $70,510 and decreased anticipated income by $39,399.

Proposed spending now totals $7,586,304 and anticipated income is $3,052,804 making the tax levy $4,536,775. This would make the city share of the tax rate $36.45, compared to $34.45 this year. State and county requests have to be added to get the total tax requirements.

District Naval Commander Calls Situation Tense; 'We Can Hold for 72 Hours'

GUANTANAMO NAVY BASE, Cuba (AP)—The top N. S. naval commander in this area said today defense forces now at the U. S. naval base at Guantanamo bay should be able to repel any attack until reinforcements can be sent.

Rear Adm. Allen Smith, commander of the Caribbean's 10th Naval District, told visiting newsmen, "the situation is tense because we are in a position of waiting for someone else to do something."

The admiral emphasized the United States is not pursuing any aggressive acts against Prime Minister Fidel Castro's regime. Castro has accused the U.S. government of planning some sort of provocative incident to give a pretext for American military intervention in Cuba. U.S. officials have denied the charge, but President Eisenhower warned in a statement Tuesday that because of the Guantanamo base's "importance to the defense of the entire hemisphere," the United States "will take whatever steps may be appropriate to defend the base."

Mine Fields Smith disclosed that mine fields were planted along the boundary fence of the 45-square-mile Guantanamo reservation several weeks ago.

"The mine fields are labeled plainly," he said. "Dr. Castro has stepped up his tempo and we have taken steps accordingly. We have made our defense a little bit tighter."

Defending forces include a few hundred Marines, Marine and Navy fighter plane squadrons that come here for training purposes, destroyers usually anchored in a bay or nearby waters, plus virtually every one of the several thousand military men on the base.

"We are hoping they will not bother us but we are ready if they do," said the admiral. "We would like to hold out at least for a 72-hour period."

Time Enough This should be time enough for more Marine ground forces, jet fighter outfits and ships from the United States and nearby Caribbean areas to arrive at Guantanamo.

Other officials responsible for the defense of the base recognize that acts short of open attack are possible.

Capt C. W. Schoenweiss, acting commander of the base, was asked about the possibility of sabotage by Castro agents sneaking into the base or operating as part of the Cuban work force that comes in daily.

"It would make things unpleasant," Schoenweiss replied. "Between 3,000 and 4,000 Cubans work on the base."

"The danger is not so much of all-out attack as harassment and sabotage," said Schoenweiss, "I doubt Dr. Castro would see any wisdom in an all-out attack."

Doomed Ship's Pilot Was on Revoked Rating

FFA Says It Had Found Flier Showed Lack of Judgment

WASHINGTON (AP) — The pilot of a plane which crashed near Toledo, Ohio, with 22 deaths last weekend was using a pilot rating that had been ordered revoked, but was still pending appeal, officials reported.

The Federal Aviation Agency announced yesterday it had issued an order last July 15 revoking the airline pilot rating of Donald L. J. Chesher, the pilot who was killed with 21 others in the Arctic-Pacific Airlines plane mishap.

Chesher appealed the FAA order and it was stayed pending a decision by the Civil Aeronautics Board, which held a hearing last Aug. 23. James Springer, president of the airline, said the fatal flight was the first assigned to Chesher since the hearing.

Under Observation During the interval, Springer said in Toledo last night, Chesher had been in Bolivia training C-46 pilots for a new airline there. Between July 15 and the time he went on leave, Springer said, Chesher had been kept under observation.

Sixteen of those killed were members of the football team from California Polytechnic College at San Luis Obispo. Their bodies were flown back to California last night by the airline.

A hospital spokesman said his death was caused by a "general, steady deterioration" during that period.

Kennedy Promises Teacher Pay Raise

Puts School Construction Bill on List of High Priority Legislation

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sen. John F. Kennedy today pledged that next year a Democratic Congress and president "will enact a bill to raise teacher salaries."

The presidential candidate also said "One of the first items on the Democratic agenda in 1961 is the passage of an adequate bill for school construction."

He outlined these promises and others in the education field in a talk prepared for a "key to victory" breakfast, before heading south to San Diego and then north to San Jose and San Francisco.

Kennedy's campaign explodes into a frenzied climax this week. After his San Francisco appearance, he will fly to Phoenix, Ariz. Between now and election night he'll touch 16 states. A stop at Detroit, Mich., on Friday had to be dropped because it just couldn't be fitted into the tight schedule.

Mocking Note

A new and mocking note toward Vice President Richard M. Nixon again entered Kennedy's tone Tuesday, a kaleidoscope day that brought him here from the East Coast for a mammoth downtown motorcade at noon.

The reception was hot, and so was one of the escorting police motorcycles. It burst into roaring flames and set ablaze the carpet of ticker tape in the street. No one was hurt.

As he did the day before, Kennedy taunted Nixon for burning President Eisenhower into the campaign in the closing days before the election next Tuesday.

Big Ten Student Vote Gives Nixon Edge Over Kennedy

URBANA, Ill. — Students at seven Big Ten universities voting in a mock presidential election have given Vice President Richard M. Nixon 21,034 votes to 15,058 for Sen. John F. Kennedy.

Each of the seven schools—Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Michigan, Northwestern, Ohio State and Wisconsin—returned a plurality in favor of the Republican nominee. Minnesota, Michigan State and Purdue didn't participate in the voting.

A University of Wisconsin student mock election Tuesday favored Nixon for president and Philip Kuehn for governor.

Similar Vote The Republican presidential vote for Adlai E. Stevenson in the election received 3,940 votes and Kennedy received 3,057. Democratic presidential choice in 1952 and 1956 received 64 write-in Republican candidate Kuehn votes at Illinois.

Famed Opera Leader Dies

Dimitri Mitropoulos Collapses During LaScala Rehearsal

MILAN, Italy (AP) — Dimitri Mitropoulos, noted Greek-American symphonic and operatic conductor, collapsed and died today while rehearsing at La Scala opera house.

The 63-year-old musician had been rehearsing Mahler's 3rd Symphony for about 10 minutes when he stopped, stood motionless for a moment, then fell from the podium. He died on the way to a hospital.

"I feel very fatigued," he had said a few minutes earlier. "I am an old automobile which still works, however."

Apparently death was due to a heart attack.

Mitropoulos had spent 10-year tenures as conductor of the Minneapolis Symphony and then of the New York Philharmonic. In 1936 he was elected to the position of conductor of the New York Metropolitan Opera Company and had toured in Europe extensively each year.

Machinery Damaged

Trio Charged After Freeing Car, Beating

Three men involved in freeing a mired car, and subsequent events during which a youth beat his girl friend, appeared on various charges in Municipal Court Tuesday.

They are Leonard Bartman, 25, 617½ Broad St., New London; Herbert Fielding, 19 1112 Mill St., New London; and William Turner, 28 Franklin Ky., a pipeline worker in the New London area.

The men and their girl friends ended a party Thursday by getting their car mired in a field near State 54 about a mile west of Shuon. To free it they took a tractor and sugar beet harrower. He died on the way to a hospital.

"I feel very fatigued," he had said a few minutes earlier. "I am an old automobile which still works, however."

Apparently death was due to a heart attack.

Turner beat Fielding during the course of the incident, apparently in an argument over the girl, Lt. Zuelzke indicated.

Fielding, charged with beating the girl, was sentenced to six months in the county jail, which was held off and he was put on probation for a year. He was fined $200 and if he doesn't pay it, he gets another 60 days in jail.

Bartman, charged with driving the tractor without the owner's consent, got a year in jail, held off and he was put on probation for three years. In addition, he was told to pay $200 toward the tractor damages.

Turner, charged with damaging the tractor and harrower, got six months in jail, held off and he was put on probation for a year.

On a charge of operating the machinery without the owner's consent, sentence was withheld and he was put on probation for three years. He was ordered to pay $200 on the damages and if he pays some $35 for damages, the court indicated it would consider taking him off probation.

Eisenhower Urges Citizens to Vote

Urgent Need for Americans To Continue Proven Practices Of Last 8 Years, He Says

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower says there is an urgent need for Americans to vote to continue the proven and prudent economic policies which have been followed in the past eight years.

Speaking last night on a political television program with Secretary of the Treasury Robert B. Anderson, Eisenhower said:

Let us make no mistake about it: the preservation of the soundness of the dollar, as well as the preservation of the confidence that the dollar will remain sound, is absolutely essential both for the welfare of our citizens at home and the rest of the free world.

The President said his administration has been working since he took office "to do the things that are not enough," he added. "It is in our government that will help like being for good against evil, maintain a sound, honest dollar."

He added: "In budget policy this means the avoidance of deficit spending which can lead only to inflationary pressures. It means managing our debt so as to be as noninflationary as possible. It means Federal Reserve operation of monetary policy to provide soundly for credit and money needs of a growing economy while avoiding creating excessive money and credit."

Cost More
Anderson said Sen. John F. Kennedy, the Democratic presidential nominee, has not said how he would pay for programs advocated in the Democratic party platform.

The secretary said the Democratic platform would cost added billions and could only be financed through higher taxes, inflationary borrowing or a combination of borrowing and economic controls. He said Kennedy had promised a balanced budget and an honest dollar.

Movie Producer Is Charged With Hiring Man to Murder Wife

GLENDAL, Calif. (AP) — Police say a retired movie producer has admitted hiring another man to bludgeon his wife of three years to death with a lead pipe and make it look like the work of a burglar.

James R. Howlett, 64, was booked on suspicion of soliciting a crime murder. "I don't believe it," said his wife Leone M. Monthei Howlett, 78. "Our marriage was entirely happy."

Detectives arrested Howlett Monday night after using a hidden microphone to record a conversation he had with Henry Lucero. Lucero said Howlett contacted him after he placed a newspaper classified ad saying he was "desperate" and needed $1,000. Lucero notified police and a second contact. Howlett once produced film cartoons for children.

Milwaukee Victim of Aid Inequities

Kuehn Says Nothing Can Be Done Until New Revenue Found

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Philip G. Kuehn, Republican candidate for governor, told a meeting of the Milwaukee Common Council Tuesday that the city is the victim of inequities in the distribution of state aids and shared income taxes.

Nothing can be done about it, he added, until the state finds a new source of revenue.

Kuehn was invited to appear before the aldermen to discuss his attitude toward municipal government. His Democratic opponent, Gov. Gaylord Nelson, also was invited to the meeting but did not appear due to other commitments.

Toss Hair
Earlier in the day, Kuehn said at a Milwaukee meeting that his major goal, if he is elected, is an overhaul of Wisconsin's tax structure. He said changes are needed so the state can compete with its neighbors in attracting new industry and to build up the economy.

At Madison, Wisconsin's state party chairman tossed hair at each other on the use of campaign signs.

Republican Claude Jasper taunted the Democrats for a paucity of signs supporting vice presidential candidate Lyndon B. Johnson.

He offered a $20 "reward" for a car top sign linking the names of Sen. John F. Kennedy and Johnson.

We sure could use that $20, Lucey replied. It would permit us to buy four more Kennedy Nelson signs.

Proud of Johnson
Lucey said that his party was proud of Johnson too. The only serious black mark on his record, Lucey added, is that on the question of oil he often votes with Wisconsin Republicans.

In the 8th Congressional District, Democrat Milo Singler said at Little Chute that the Republican policy of catering to the bank and loan sharks wishes to keep money tight and hard to get. Wisconsin Republicans has played havoc with many small business firms.

"Hard working small business men trying to get a new business on its feet the last few years have found it practically impossible to get reasonable help," Singler added.

Plan Unit Can't Force Will on State Members, Nelson Says

RACINE (AP) — Gov. Gaylord Nelson said Tuesday night that Wisconsin statutes make it clear that the new Southwestern Wisconsin Educational Finance Commission has no authority to impose its will on a group.

The chief executive, David G. Kelly, stated that the Finance Development Council, a dinner meeting here with county board members and other persons, and the council of local government officials, are the only groups that can force their will on the seven counties.

The commission, however, is not set up to force its will on the counties and seek answers on major problems faced by Milwaukee, Washington, Ozaukee, Waukesha, Racine, Kenosha and Walworth counties.

The success of the commission may very well determine the future of the entire industrial, general economic and recreational development of the area.

United Fund Drive Aided by Donation Of 8,000 Shoes

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — A local department store helped the United Fund drive by offering to give away shoes to contributors. Eight thousand shoes were stacked on tables—all good shoes but not one of them had a mate. Only 400 were left after one-legged persons and those with foot ailments swarmed around the tables for two days making selections.

One woman who picked out eight light shoes said she had been buying shoes by the pair for years although she could use only right ones. As her contribution she dumped eight unused left shoes into the pile.

Young Girl Loses $128,396 In Soccer Pool

LONDON (AP) — An 18-year-old girl who came to England 12 weeks ago found to her dismay that she had lost $128,396 from her fingers before she could get hold of the money.

Depoid, who thought she had won the money bet in a soccer pool, an offer of the pool fund called on her to hand her the check.

But when he found she was under 21, he told her she couldn't have the money. Under British law, no one under 21 is allowed to bet on the pools.

What can I do, asked Miss Depoid in tears. Her German parents would have been given the money in trust for her. It was the first time I had ever lived in a common and it came out all right and now this.

Miss Depoid works as a maid. A policeman in Liverpool told her how to fill in the coupon. The winner has to forfeit eight soccer games and the money.

Cuba Loses Fight for UN to Air Charge of U. S. Invasion Plan

Surprise Support Given Soviet Bloc by African, Asian Nations

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Cuba and her Communist supporters lost their fight Tuesday night for an immediate U.N. Assembly airing of charges the United States plans an invasion of Cuban soil. But the vote was closer than many expected.

The 99 nation assembly voted 45-29 against the Cuban Soviet attempt to upset the steering committee's recommendation that the Cuban complaint be sent first to the assembly political committee. Eighteen nations abstained.

The assembly then voted 51-11 with 27 abstentions to follow the steering committee's recommendation.

Bitter Attacks

The balloting came after two days of bitter attacks by Cuba and the entire Soviet bloc—who accused the United States of aggression, subversion, invasion plans and all-around sinister intent.

U.S. Ambassador James F. Wadsworth said he would reply in full when the political committee debates the complaint. He termed the charges "monstrous distortions and downright falsehoods."

Cuba's bid for an assembly debate got expected support from the Soviet bloc and Yugoslavia. But to the surprise of many, 18 Asian and African nations rallied behind her demand. They were India, Indonesia, Iraq, Yemen, Saudi Arabia, the United Arab Republic, Libya, Nepal, Ceylon, Burma, Cambodia, Ethiopia, Ghana, Guinea, Nepal, Morocco, Mali and Afghanistan.

Others Abstained
 Other Asian and African nations and a scattering of Latin Americans were among those abstaining.

Wadsworth said the United States wants a complete airing of Cuba's charges. He predicted the debate would show up Cuba and her Soviet bloc backers but insisted the political committee was

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) —

A name in a Bible led officers to the home of a youth wanted for stealing hubcaps and hit and run driving.

SPINE SHOULD BE INCLUDED IN ALL HEALTH EXAMINATIONS

Dr. W. C. Campbell, professor of surgery at the University of Chicago, writes in his textbook, "Orthopedic Surgery," the spine should be included in every routine physical examination as nerves pass through the intervertebral foramina, spinal outlets from the spinal cord to all parts of the body. In sequence, symptoms simulating many afflictions may be referred to the periphery when the pathology is present in the spine.

This is splendid advice. And tonight we add that a Chiropractor is the only one capable to analyze the spine thoroughly from the mechanical point of view.

Nixon for President

On the surface, the 1960 presidential campaign presents to the people of America two attractive, capable, relatively young men for the highest office in the land. Each is a man who can legitimately engender personal admiration and enthusiasm among his fellow citizens: the same can be said for the candidates for vice president. In fact, if one is interested only in surface qualities, it is easy to conclude that the country could not go wrong with either presidential candidate in the White House.

But when we look below the surface — beneath the hoopla of the campaign, the frenzied efforts of partisans, the posturings of the candidates themselves — we see quite a different picture. It is a picture of two men who are really very different in background, in experience and in ideas. John F. Kennedy and Richard M. Nixon definitely are not two peas out of the same pod; the people have a real choice, and it is one they should make with great care.

One of the amazing things about the 1960 presidential picture has been the rise of Sen. Kennedy to great prominence in our national affairs. We say amazing because it is difficult to fathom why this rise should have occurred. True, Sen. Kennedy became a member of Congress the same year that his opponent did — in 1946; yet for a full decade he played a quite unimportant role in Congress, his chief claim to fame being the manner in which he won a senate seat from Henry Cabot Lodge in heavily Democratic Massachusetts. When, in 1956, he came out of nowhere to make a surprisingly strong showing in the vice presidential balloting at the Democratic national convention (a good many of his votes came from delegates who did not like Sen. Estes Kefauver) he was, relatively, still a bit player on the national political stage.

Yet only four years later this man is being offered to the nation, and indeed to the entire free world, as the one among millions who shall lead us. During those four years, as far as we can see, Sen. Kennedy did nothing of any great note to mark him for this high honor — he sponsored no major legislation, showed no particular leadership capabilities in the Senate, made no really impressive pronouncements about policy either foreign or domestic. Indeed, the record shows that he devoted those years to the building up of a huge, superbly efficient and very well financed organization with but one purpose in mind — the capture of the presidency. The success of this drive so far is a sobering reminder of the effectiveness of money and modern publicity techniques in the promotion of a candidate for high office in this country.

It can be argued that Vice President Nixon also came out of nowhere to the prominence he enjoys today. There is some truth in this, but he did it eight years ago and in the intervening period he has played a part in the councils of national leadership such as no candidate for the presidency has played since the early days of the Republic. He has been tested by fire — in meetings of the Cabinet and the National Security Council, on the occasions of the president's serious illnesses, in the streets of Caracas and Moscow and Warsaw. The eyes of the nation, indeed of the world, have been on him these eight years, and he has not faltered nor stumbled. In short, here is a man who has proven himself.

As to the issues, Nixon is clearly his opponent's superior. Domestically, it is often said there really is little difference in the attitudes of the two major parties. While this argument has some validity, it is a relative matter — it is true that we have no great divisive issue such as we had in the slavery question a century ago, yet the devotion of Democratic leaders to government spending and their resulting willingness to accept inflation as a price of progress contrasts sharply with the Republicans' insistence on fiscal responsibility and their devotion to a sound dollar. Make no mistake about it — with Sen. Kennedy in the White House we will have inflation, and old people, teachers, government workers and others with relatively fixed incomes will suffer again as they did in 1945-52.

But far more important is the question of foreign policy. In fact the Post-Crescent believes so strongly that foreign policy is the dominant issue in all national political campaigns in this era that we would support an extreme left-wing Democrat for the presidency, with whom we would violently disagree on domestic issues, if we thought he would provide a firmer hand on the tiller as we weave our way through the dangerous waters of international politics in this nuclear age. Foreign policy today is a matter of sheer survival — survival of our free institutions, of our nation and of our very selves.

Sen. Kennedy's excursions into foreign policy debate date back to his astonishingly naive suggestion, several years ago, that France should give Algeria its freedom forthwith — a suggestion that severely embarrassed the United States government and caused undue strain in our relations with our age-old ally, France. Reminiscent of this bobble was his recent proposal that the United States should sponsor a new revolution in Cuba — again, he seems to be toying with ideas in this field, rather than thinking through the complex problems that face us.

There is little doubt that Sen. Kennedy's ideas on foreign policy come principally from Chester Bowles and Adlai Stevenson. Both of these men are fine Americans and dedicated thinkers about these matters — but both also are inextricably linked with the fuzzy thinking of past Democratic administrations during which more than 600 million people disappeared behind the Iron Curtain. They are not people who, in our opinion, should make decisions on which will rest the fate of America and the rest of the free world.

We do not say that the foreign policies of the Eisenhower administration — in which Mr. Nixon had a part in shaping and for which he must accept some responsibility — have been perfect. But we do say that these policies have added up to a good defense — a defense that has completely stopped further military adventures by the communists and has slowed to a creep their drive for world conquest which was almost an avalanche during the Truman administration. Richard Nixon played a part in the high councils that decided these policies; he was a close associate of John Foster Dulles; he knows the heads of state, both friend and foe, with whom we must deal; he has traveled throughout the world to learn first-hand about the aspirations and concerns of other peoples. His pronouncements on foreign policy during the campaign have been sound and sensible, daring yet dealing with the possible.

These are not times in which America can afford to turn to an untried leader — glamorous though his personality may be. These are times in which we need a leader who has withstood the tests of fire — whose qualities we know because we have seen him in action, in whose steadfastness we can have confidence because it has been demonstrated to us time and time again. Such a man is Richard M. Nixon.

Andrei Andreyevich Smirnov was supposed to bring a new type of diplomatic relations between the Russians and West Germans when he was appointed ambassador to the Bonn government in 1956. He was suave, soft-spoken, courtly. Chancellor Adenauer often had him in for quiet chats and reasonable discussions.

But the orders from Moscow must be emphasizing that manners don't go well with the theory of the triumph of the proletariat. Smirnov tried his own version of Khrushchev's boorish United Nations tactics recently in Bonn.

Dr. Ludwig Erhard, West Germany's minister of economy, commented in a speech that there was "no bigger colonialism in this world today than Soviet imperialism." This was not complimentary to Russia although hardly anything new to be mentioned by a representative of a free

From The Savannah Morning News
When the Soviet Union protests that the cost of subduing turmoil in one part of the world is too great, while announcing they are subsidizing national disunity and division in another part of the world, then all the world is getting a clearer understanding of what the cold war is all about.

Takes Stamina To be Candidate For President
From The Buffalo Evening News
Presidential elections in the United States are held every four years—just like the Olympic Games. It is conceivable that the athletic Olympics could be held annually but save us from a race for the White House every year. No contest on the athletic field is so prolonged or arduous as our quadrennial political campaigns. There hardly is time for the survivor to recover before he must face his new responsibilities. And the sad part of this observation goes for the voters too.

Bookmobile Preferred to Roof On Goodland Field Grandstand

Editor, Post-Crescent:

It disturbs me to read in the Post-Crescent that the city's budget committee has turned down the library board's request for funds to have a bookmobile built while they have approved the request for money to have a roof put on the grandstand at Goodland field. Evidently we have plenty of money for amusement but none to further learning.

I think we would be farther ahead to grant the library board's request and do without a roof at the ball park, even though the bookmobile costs more. Since baseball is not played in the rain and we have many night games why is a roof necessary? Besides the ball park is used only in summer. Of course it is said that of the teams in the league only Appleton and one other are without roofs.

Well, among the seven largest cities in Wisconsin (Appleton being 7th) five have bookmobiles. That leaves Appleton and one other city without one. There are 11 communities in the state with bookmobiles.

As Appleton grows in many directions, I believe that we need to take our library services to the outlying areas, and there are two ways to do it. One is the branch library, requiring a building and staff and materials permanently located. We could have this type of service, but we might build the branch where growth was expected and then find that our city grew in other directions (I do not notice much growth to the northwest of our senior high school). The other method of extending library service is the bookmobile which can serve several areas and will require less duplication of materials.

A bookmobile stopping in outlying areas would serve many for whom a trip downtown is inconvenient. Those who do not drive and must depend on public transportation would have service within walking distance. Those who do drive would find parking easier than in the congested downtown area. People with small children could walk to where the bookmobile stops rather than hire a baby sitter or take the little ones along downtown.

With all that has been said lately about the Americans losing prestige in areas where it is really important, I think it would be a great mistake to spend money for a grandstand roof, and deny the library board's request.

However, I am not against baseball either—or other recreational activities, although I do prefer seeing recreation money spent on things in which our people can actively participate, rather than on professionals just to watch. We need our parks, and they should be kept up better than they are. We should not fill our ravines with junk to make flat land of them. We need sports for our young people and places for the oldsters to relax. If we have $18,000 for the grandstand, I think it could be put to better use, and the library should be granted its bookmobile if we can spend for that grandstand roof.

Asks Backing for Neenah Officials in Costs Fight

Editor, Post-Crescent:

To the taxpayers of the City of Neenah:

The hue and cry for some time has been that something must be done to relieve the almost unbearable burden, tax that is, which the owner of real estate is carrying. However, they haven't suggested a remedy and they don't have to for you have the answer. Support the administration when it wishes to cut the budgets of the various boards and commissions. You know the administration has tried to cut in past years and that meant stepping on somebody's toes by eliminating or cutting the appropriation for his particular budget. What a horror so the project goes back into the budget. If you don't know it you should, the tax dollars are becoming fewer and fewer and luxuries must be cut out of the budget until it has been proved that we actually have reached a new era, one of continued prosperity. I hope I shall live long enough to have that proved.

We are warned to be wary of what might come out of Washington and Madison in the way of spending but we have a problem in our own city. We are constantly adding new properties to the assessment roll, approximately two millions of dollars this year, but taxes still continue to increase and the only time the trend will be reversed will be when we have a big blow up. God forbid. The new properties added this year will bring in revenue, at the present tax rate, or approximately $107,000. However, unless it was included in the budget, the rate of $123,000 given city employees and school teachers have more than it need up that figure. Please remember there are more taxes in the offing.

I don't know just when the payments on the bond issue for

Looking Backward

Several Things to Remember

106 YEARS AGO

Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for the week of Nov. 3, 1900.

Remember, that while the Republicans are talking and blowing about free homes they nominated Hannibal Hamlin for Vice President.

Remember, that Hamlin is opposed to free homes. He voted against the Homestead Bill on the 10th of May, 1876.

Remember, that while the Republicans talk about freedom, they want to fasten the laws of a corrupt Congress upon an unwilling people, just because they live in territories.

Remember, the Republicans say that the people of a territory are not capable of self government.

Remember, that Lincoln voted in the State Legislature against a law to protect the early settlers of Illinois from aggression of Indian warriors.

Remember, Lincoln opposed the Mexican War while the blood of our young was crying from the ground of grief.

25 YEARS AGO

Wednesday, Oct. 20, 1935

A voluntary code of fair competition, embodying maximum hours of labor, minimum wages, a maximum machine operating week of six days, and the abolition of child labor, was recommended in a resolution adopted at a conference of representatives of seven Wisconsin pulp and paper mills with representatives of international labor unions and delegates from local power mills, meeting at Head Appleton.

Duke W. Davis, who had been named wartime minister and senator, on the industries of Wisconsin, introduced a proposed state tax on chlorophyll and containing a clause exempting the marketing of cotton seed oil. Karl Kuehn, Appleton, was awarded a patent by the United States Patent Office for his invention of an improved type machine penning apparatus.

Herman J. Schweger, Appleton, was elected president of the Phi Kappa Tau Alumni Association.

Lesser Figures on State Ticket Coasting Along

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — With the superlative claims for attention by the presidential campaigns against which the Wisconsin candidates for governor are trying to stand, the aspirants for the lesser state offices on the November ballot have been virtually hidden.

The orthodox view is that the candidates will run with their tickets. If Gov. Gaylord Nelson wins, the chances are that he will carry with him his state treasurer, the nearly silent Eugene Lamb. If Philip Kuehn, the Republican gubernatorial nominee, pulls an upset, the chances will be good for George Thompson of LaCrosse who has made a fairly light effort as the GOP nominee for attorney general.

There may be some exceptions, however. Republican Sec. of State Robert C. Zimmerman has shown that he is a perceptible fraction stronger than his ticket makes, a circumstance that is no doubt some comfort to him as he surveys the prospect of the outcome of the party fight in state politics this year.

Two years ago Warren P. Knowles ran impressively well when he lost by a very thin margin to Philico Nash in the contest for the lieutenant governorship.

THE PROBLEM

The problem of all of the subordinate ticket candidates is to get the ear of the voters at a time when they are thinking of war and peace, presidential succession, the Congo, Fidel and Quemoy.

How to run the attorney general's office or the secretary of state's office is not a very good competitor for speech material.

Warren Knowles has become one of the policy men on the Republican state ticket, dealing in major state affairs questions as directly and as forcefully as the leader of the ticket, Phil Kuehn.

There is no counterpart on the Democratic side. Phil Nash contents himself with the routine recitations of legislative disputes, and pointing with pride to the first term Democratic administration record. Gaylord Nelson is not sharing the leadership role in his party.

Knowles is considerably better known than Kuehn, as a result of successive state-wide campaigns and state capitol prominence over two decades. There remains in GOP circles a feeling that he would have been a good candidate for governor, and some curiosity about the reasons why he wanted to run for lieutenant governor. The answer is that Knowles doesn't want to be governor. He wants to be lieutenant governor only because it is a part-time job that permits him to remain in politics, without forcing a surrender of his professional law practice.

THE OTHERS

Perhaps the best campaigner on the Democratic subordinate ticket is Atty. Gen. John W. Reynolds. He has picked no quarrels with his Republican rival, as perhaps helps a former classmate. He says little about his job, for there is little that can be said about a purely ministerial office. He is tempted sometimes to exploit sure-fire publicity issues, such as the sales tax that he denounced with such marvelous repetitiveness two years ago. One gathers that he is more careful this year, however, not being wholly sure where the fiscal necessities of the times will lead the Democrats if they continue to hold office in Wisconsin for the next few years.

Mrs. Dona Smith, who won the Republican nomination for state treasurer in spite of the desecration of the Republican organization, has done little to exploit the publicity avenues that probably were available to her because of that triumph. She is campaigning in her own neighborhood in Milwaukee county, but the rest of the state has seen her scarcely at all.

Skirt Length Major Issue In Education

From The Peoria Journal Star

There are, indeed, signs these days that Americans are taking a renewed interest in educational matters.

Just the other night, for instance, 700 parents turned out for a meeting at York Park to discuss a heated scholastic topic.

The issue was, indeed, that skirts with hemlines above the knees are indecent. Principal William N. Craley of Central Union High School took the affirmative—in fact, held warned female students to show a little less knee or else.

Well, you would have thought Principal Craley proposed the teaching of Communism. Of the 700 persons at the meeting, 650 indicated they thought Craley and the whole school administration ought to be thrown out.

There was no report of any controversy over reading, writing or arithmetic.

"Have these gentlemen forgotten that all that is needed is the agreement of the Cuban people?" he asked.

Decision Made

Dorticos said the decision of the Cuban people already had been made, but it will not be carried out "through armed or physical aggression because we are not going to commit such stupidity."

Prime Minister Fidel Castro told the U.N. General Assembly last September the Cuban government was considering a demand based on international law that the United States give up the base.

Cubans continued to be fed a diet of rumors of invasion threats and stories of defense preparations.

No Commitment To Warn British Of Polaris Use

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. officials expressed surprise today at Prime Minister Harold Macmillan's statement that he expects Britain to be consulted before any Polaris missiles are fired from submarines serviced at a Scottish base.

Macmillan stated that opinion yesterday as he formally announced to the house of commons a U.S.-British agreement to permit the United States to keep a mobile tender and a floating dock in the Clyde River estuary. It would be used to service U.S. submarines between patrol voyages.

"Wherever these submarines may be," Macmillan said, "I am perfectly satisfied no decision to use these missiles will ever be taken without the fullest possible consultation."

No such commitment was made when the agreement to establish the station was negotiated, state department officials said.

Commission Created For Railroad Study

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower has formally created a 15-member commission to study disputed work rules and practices in the railroad industry, in committee.

Commission members will be named later. Five will represent labor, five will represent railroad management, five will be selected by railroad unions and five — including the chairman — will be named by Eisenhower.

The study will start about Jan. 1, with a final report expected about Dec. 1, 1961.

flying from New York City in helicopters.

On seven points, Eisenhower said Nixon and Lodge stand out above their Democratic opponents.

The president said he compares the two political teams on these points:

1. Character.
2. Moral courage.
3. Capacity.
4. Readiness to undertake disagreeable tasks.
5. Experience.
6. Ability to make decisions.
7. Devotion and dedication to the United States.

Standing bareheaded in bright morning sunshine, the president expressed his concern over the issues involved in the presidential election.

Eisenhower, wearing a brown business suit, wore no topcoat despite the stiff breeze that was blowing.

The president went on to say launch the last-ditch drive after that the two nominees "can do

"The objective is not to increase national defenses; it is to increase Republican votes."

Bushels of confetti and ticker tape cascaded down on Kennedy as he hit the downtown area at the noon hour. The crowds were huge, but so were those that greeted Nixon when he came here Oct. 14.

The exploding motorcycle fuel tank added a dramatic note to the downtown Kennedy visit. The officer managed to leap off with nothing worse than singed breeches. Later, Kennedy's car overheated and he had to change vehicles in mid-motorcade.

Kennedy got in a touch of his Los Angeles' oldest section, the quaint, touristy, cobbled street is lined with Mexican restaurants and curio shops.

Former Convict Nabbed in Texas

LAREDO, Tex. (AP) — Curtis Lee Jones, 38-year-old Arkansas ex-convict accused of murder, rape and kidnapping, surrendered without a struggle yesterday after the stolen horse on which he was attempting to escape stumbled and fell.

Jones, object of an intensive week-long manhunt, was captured on the Callahan ranch, 20 miles north of Laredo.

He threw up his hands after a member of a posse fired a shotgun blast over his head. He later told newsmen he had lost his 22 caliber pistol when thrown from the horse.

RUDE THEATER MANNERS

BY LOUISE DAVIS

We have a real problem with a couple of whom we are extremely fond. They are always suggesting fourours to concerts, movies and plays but talk all the way through them. They are lovely, companionable people otherwise, and we want to keep them as friends, but they embarrass us in public. Is there any diplomatic way we can let them know that we don't like conversation during an entertainment?

Louise Davis Answers:

If you concentrate and keep both ears and both eyes on the performance, it is likely that you won't hear and therefore you can't respond to their conversation. If the other husband and his wife continue to talk to each other, I'm sure that they would be so annoyed to those around them that they would get "high signs" to "please be quiet."

MAILING ANNOUNCEMENTS:

To my surprise, we have just received an announcement of a marriage that isn't taking place for another 10 days. Do you suppose it would be all right for me to telephone the bride's mother and inform her of the error?

Louise Davis Answers:

No. The damage is done and can't be rectified. No one in the family is going to thank you for calling attention to an error so I advise you to lay off. You can be sure that someone in the bride's or bridegroom's family have already done the informing. Announcing a marriage in advance is incorrect both according to etiquette and fact. The two people aren't yet married. It wouldn't be correct either to say that "Mr. and Mrs. George Smith announce the approaching marriage of..." Announcements are therefore mailed after the wedding, either on that day or as soon as possible thereafter.

Clean-Up Time Always Here

Seasons come and seasons go, but the cleanup work goes on forever or so it seems.

Fall's no different. Not with storm windows to wash and garden tools and barbecue grills to be cleaned and put away for the season.

You can do these jobs effectively, and save washing cleaning rags too by using paper towels for those fall cleanup chores.

If the man of the house hasn't already done it, install a paper towel holder in the garage or basement where the work will be done. That way, you'll always have a handy supply.

It's especially important to clean your garden tools thoroughly. Spend a little extra time to get all the dirt off the lawn clippers, rakes, hoes, mower blades and other tools. Apply oil as necessary to clippers and mower blades, wiping off the excess with paper towels. Cleaning and oiling will prevent rusting of the tools during winter storage, and they'll be ready for action first thing in the spring.

You'll want your grill ready for use too so scrub the grids completely and make sure they're dry by using absorbent paper towels. Several sheets of paper towel attached to the grill top and bottom with cellophane tape will keep off the dust that may accumulate.

"A Trick? Do I Haveta?" could be the question asked by Brian Sexton as he made his Halloween rounds. Brian is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Pat Sexton, 815 E. Minor St.

Scout 'Receipt' Book Marks Birth Date

Juliette Low was born in Savannah, Georgia, a hundred years ago. In recognition of the centennial of her birth date, Oct. 31, 1860, the group she founded, Girl Scouts of the U.S.A., have put together a "receipt book" in her honor.

In the time of Miss Low, cooking and kitchens were very different from today. Stoves burned wood endlessly and there was always a pot of something simmering. A recipe was a "receipt," and it was handed with love from mother to daughter. Good receipts were highly prized and hostesses exchanged them freely. Cooks then, as now, were careful in selecting dishes that went well together.

The name of the cookbook is "Centennial Receipt Book — Juliette Gordon Low, Hostess and Homemaker." Many of the recipes in it can no longer be savored by the palate, but must be tasted by the heart. Some of the friendly tips of yesterday are as valid and useful now as ever.

One level teaspoonful of soda is sufficient to sweeten a pint of sour milk, the book advises. The same page in telling how to make turtle soup, advises that the turtle must be killed by 7 a.m. and allowed to drip for at least three hours. The "receipt" for chicken soup admonishes that all bones must be broken. Ovens today are a far cry from the one in which a piece of paper will turn dark brown in three minutes if it is hot enough to

Small Fry Know About Witch and Ghost Yet Halloween's the Day That's the 'Most'

BY JEAN OTTO
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

At dusk Monday Appleton porch lights took the terror from black shadows cast by tall, gaunt trees and made dark streets a little less forbidding to small imaginations. Witches and ghosts took refuge from the giggles and shouts of youngsters and obligingly stayed in hiding.

Parents helped the little ones with their costumes. Eyebrow pencil and rouge were supplied in generous amounts. Now and then the lipstick got out of hand. It's hard to find the mouth of a child jumping with excitement. Angels became devils in a matter of seconds. The boy who robbed the cookie jar appropriately donned the eye patch and cutlass of a pirate.

Gypsies lifted their skirts from soggy leaves and danced down the street. A rabbit with flouncy ears and a puff of tail bounced from door to door. Mickey Mouse was everywhere. The smaller child, the bigger the bag, or perhaps it only seemed that way.

The little ones who came to my house had to earn their treats. The child who hollered "Chick or Cheat" had a few questions put to him before he carried away his loot. What is Halloween? I wanted to know. What's a witch? A ghost? What will you do if you don't get a treat?

Not one child questioned—and there were about 50 of them—knew the real meaning of the holiday. One boy said it was a witch. Another announced, holding forth a bulging bag, that it was "fun for kids." One bright little girl said, "It's today! Oct. 31." A 3-year-old in a grotesque mask shrugged at my ignorance. "Candy is all," she informed me. "Look, I have a whole bunch." Most of them agreed that it was a special night, and not one expected a sick tummy the next day.

A witch was easier to describe.

"It's an old lady with a broom."

"My sister. Did you see her?"

"It's a hag that does magic and has a cat."

"It's a bone from a chicken that you witch on."

No one had ever seen a ghost, but every youngster knew his purpose. He was to scare.

"He's all white and he says 'Boooo,'" a little boy whose front teeth had gone to the good fairy said.

"It's only a make-believe thing—that floats through the air and has big black eyes and a awful mouth and scares little children."

"It's a mug." Pause. "That's a black dangrus thing."

None of the children had any kind of answer at all to the question about the trick they intended to do. They expressed philosophical unconcern about the fate of missing one more treat.

"Go without it," Cinderella smiled.

"Just go back to my father," Andy Gump replied. Then he turned back, "Why? Are ya out?"

One little girl put her bag on the floor and opened it. "Here," she said, "you can have some of mine. I got too much anyhow."

"Say, Mates, You Think we could get the color TV in here?" might be the question asked by pirate-like Jeffrey Stafford as he and his brother and sister, Gregory and Theresa, dropped in at an Appleton home Monday. They are the children of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Stafford, 538 N. Rankin St.

"I Thought You Were a gentleman," Karen Reilly says to her escort. "Take off your hat in the house!" Karen is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Reilly.

"You See, My Dear, it's all quite simple," Timmy Reilly explains to his younger sister, Judy, as he delves into the internal machinery of a jack-o-lantern. The children's parents are Mr. and Mrs. William Reilly, 206 N. Meade St.

Parents Tell Betrothal of Daughter

Dr. and Mrs. W. H. Rummel, Waupaca, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Lenora, to David Hathaway, son of Dr. and Mrs. G. J. Hathaway, Las Vegas, N.M., and formerly of King.

Miss Rummel, a graduate of Marquette University, Milwaukee, taught in Fond-du Lac and New London for three years and now is teaching English at San Jacinto Senior High School, Houston, Texas. Her fiance graduated from Lawrence College, where he affiliated with Beta Theta Pi and Phi Beta Kappa. He studied two years at the University of Edinburgh, Scotland, on a Fulbright scholarship. He now is attending medical school at Baylor University, Houston, Texas.

The wedding will take place Dec. 29 at St. Mary Catholic Church, Waupaca.

Polio Weapons

Vaccine is a powerful defense against polio—and so is cleanliness. According to a Rhode Island public health officer, parents should insist on good personal hygiene to protect their children against the disease.

This includes proper washing of hands with soap, avoiding the common use of cups, glasses and newspaper enclosing a stamp, and swimming only in clean pools.

Your Problems

Lonely Hearts Club Victim Offers Warning to Others

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I know you'll say I'm a rock head but if you print this letter, it may help to warn others.

I became acquainted with a lady through a Lonely Hearts Club. She sent me her picture, and her letters sounded educated and respectable. I had lost my wife a few years back and wanted a mother for my boy. This woman said she was widowed and had three children who needed a daddy.

After four months of writing back and forth I sent money for her and the three kids to come to Fairbanks, Alaska, where I'm working. She lived in Maryland, so you know this was quite a hunk of dough.

She did not arrive on the day she was supposed to and I haven't heard from her since. It's been over a month.

I'm so mad I'm tempted to hire detectives to hunt her up, but then what good would it do even if I could find her, which is unlikely. Just print my letter as a warning to others. Thank you—HAROLD.

Dear Harold: It's amazing how many reasonably sensible people do unbelievably stupid things when they are lonesome. For this reason I refuse, flatly, to put one reader in touch with another, through this column. I am opposed unequivocally to any sort of blind matchmaking and I don't care how respectable it may sound. I've known of matchmaking outfits which have succeeded in hoodwinking even respectable clergymen into the act.

I've examined almost a ton of Lonely Hearts literature which runs the gamut from the cheap "Pen Pal Club Plan" to the highly polished "Select 1 on Agency." And there's always a price. In my opinion, it all boils down to this: Grown men and women who have failed to find a mate through accepted channels and are willing to put the selection of a life-long partner in the hands of an agency are a little off-balance. It may work in one case out of a thousand, but I wouldn't touch such stuff with a 40-foot pole.

DEAR ANN: I have a problem. I can't talk over with my husband. He idolizes his sister—and she is the problem.

I'm not good at club work or organizations. I have four children under 12 and they keep me busy. I do all my own housework, baking and laundry. I love to read but I haven't had time to sit down with a book in five years.

My sister-in-law lives two blocks away. She is a very outgoing person, president of two clubs, and is involved in school board activities and local politics. Her children are the same ages as three of mine, and they fight a lot. Five days a week I have her kids here for lunch, dinner, or both. She never hires a sitter if they go out for an evening. She brings them over here. She and her husband take several short trips during the year and I get the Best Sister-In-Law. I like the little but her children are too much for me. If I wanted to take care of seven kids I would have had three more of my own. What can I do?—Stuck.

Dear Stuck: Your husband didn't get you into this spot so don't expect him to get you out. Your real problem is ambivalence (OK—look it up). You enjoy the title, but you don't like what goes with it. When you reach the point when the title means less than the extra work, you'll let her know.

Does almost everyone have a good time but you? If so, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "How To Be Well-Liked," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and

Iran's Heir Doing Well

TEHERAN, Iran (AP) — Queen Farah got out of bed today for the first time since giving birth to Iran's Crown Prince Monday. The Shah meanwhile was reported planning his own coronation for next year, since he now has an heir to assure the line of succession to Iran's ancient peacock throne.

Uninformed sources said the 42-year-old monarch yesterday told a cabinet meeting: "Now that my heir is born, the way is open for my coronation."

This would mean he will mount the jewel-encrusted peacock throne for the first time in his 19-year reign. He had refused to do so until he had a male heir who could legally take his place and divorced two previous wives for not producing one.

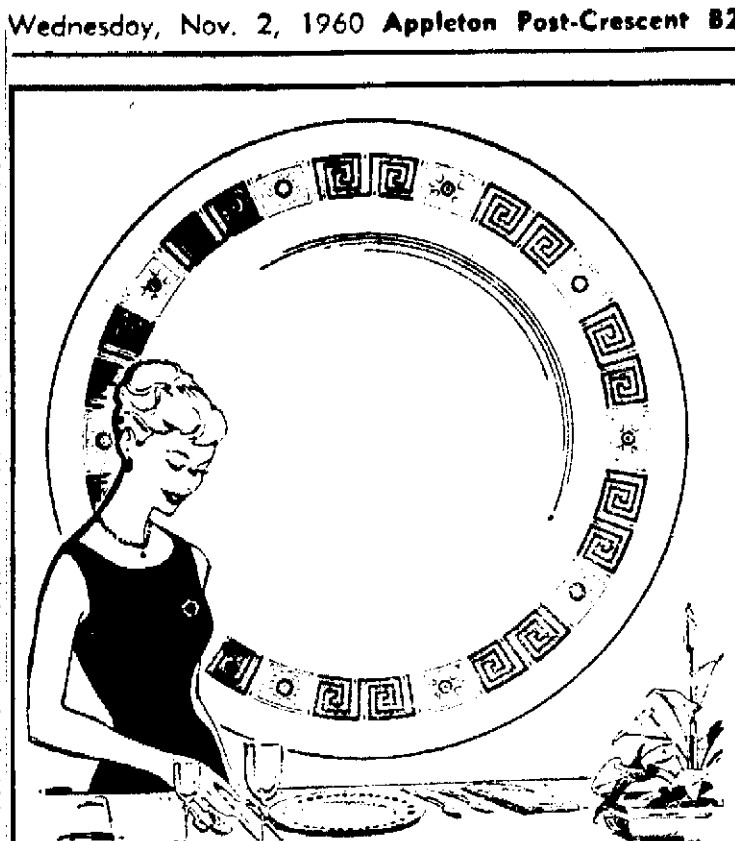

The tiny Crown Prince himself was on a four-hour feeding schedule in Mothers' Aid Charity Hospital.

The Queen and the baby now are in perfect condition," said Farah's American-trained physician, Jahanshah Saleh. He examined the mother and child at noon.

Saleh said the 23-year-old Queen could return to the palace Friday at the earliest.

Plans were made for a Christmas party which will be held Dec. 13 at Bernie's Supper Club. Chairman is Mrs. Paulie. Mrs. Frank Bick and Mrs. John Vander Wyl, Jr., will assist. At the dinner secret pals will be revealed and gifts exchanged.

The next meeting will be Dec. 6 at the home of Mrs. Robert Lathrop, 719 E. Goodall St. Mrs. Bick will be co-hostess.

Bright Ideas For Children On Dull Days

Now that summer's over, many mothers may be looking ahead with some misgivings to those "play-indoors" days. And it's true that keeping the youngsters occupied can be a problem without some "keep busy" ideas that will benefit both mother and children. Coloring books and finger paints are wonderful, of course. But chances are the youngsters may be happier with some change of pace. . . something just a little bit different. And, their interest will be higher, too.

For example, why not suggest that they brighten their own rooms with some colorful decals? All you need is a pair of scissors, a pencil and a roll of two of covering material. You can use either a solid color or a pattern, but be sure the covering material has an adhesive backing. Here's what to do—clip the desired figures (rabbits, ships, airplanes) out of a magazine or an old picture book; trace the figure on the back of the roll of covering material and cut it out. Then, strip off the adhesive backing and press the decal firmly on the wall. If your youngster tires of the decals later, they can be removed easily. You might keep this project in mind yourself, for decorating your recreation room walls for a party or other special occasion.

Mrs. John Dutcher follows the mood with a floral metallic print tailored shirt and slim tapered pants. Mrs. Andrew Wargo shows a wool shadow plaid sheath with fringe treatment at hemline.

Cure for Blues

A bright new hat is not the only remedy to cure a case of "the blues." Many women find that briskly shampooing their hair does the trick, too — or buying a rosy lipstick, or some eye shadow in a "different" color. Anything which perks up a woman's appearance is sure to cure her of the doldrums!

Children Retain Class Records Throughout Life

BY ANGELO PATRI [in elementary and secondary schools] The school record a student's marks, shrug, makes is of great importance to them off, with never a thought of him. A fact which will be made what a good record can do for clear to him when he is through them and what a poor one can in-school and he is asked for his file upon them in time to come, record. Too many boys and girls. Children and youthful students live in the future, never today, but today is the only one they are sure of using and this must be told them again and again even to the point of boredom. They do not seem to feel the importance of the poor mark in conduct, of the notation, "Disregards the rights of others." "Does not cooperate." Yet such marks and notations are going to stand for years to come and rise to block his way some time when he can least afford it.

Show Interest
When the first grader's report comes home father and mother should let the child see their great interest in it, their feeling of its importance, praise him for all that is good on it and caution him about anything that needs remedial action. Then they should file it away in a place kept for it and all the records.

The school people consider these records sacred. They are as accurate as they can make them, and they will make no changes on them no matter what pleas are made. The records stand. The school head may be called on to swear to their accuracy, often this has happened, so he is always more than careful about them. If this were not so, parents could not, as they often have done, fall back on them in a time of trouble.

Stress Importance
Teach children the importance of their report cards. Talk the marks over with them and while trying to impress them with their duty to raise the low ones and maintain the high ones, remember to show them how valuable they are to them and to their parents by filing them. It is a wonderful help in the day of trouble, in the day of competition for a job, to have a good school record.

The children can't know this but their parents certainly can and do. So it is plainly the duty of parents to make clear to their children how important a good record can be to them in the years ahead.

Even Simple Plays Can Be Problem

Certain bridge plays, like taking candy from a baby, are easy in theory but tough in practice. For example, there are some hands in which the only problem is to make simple plays in the right order.

You win the first trick with dummy's king of spades and lead the jack of hearts for a finesse.

West wins with the king of hearts and leads his other trump to your ace. You cash two hearts to discard a diamond from dummy. Then you take the top diamonds and ruff a diamond in dummy.

How do you get back to your hand to ruff out your last diamond?

You can't do it. You have to lead clubs. East steps up with the king of clubs and slaps down the queen of spades to draw dummy's last trump. Now you must lose a diamond trick, and you are down one.

This tragedy was predictable. If you looked ahead you would see

International Question
And, to date this one—What is the opinion of the Chinese on the Spanish-American war?
"Spanish all talkie-talkie. American all Dewey-Dewey."
The dictionaries' definition of conundrum is "a kind of a riddle based on fanciful resemblance between things quite unlike, forming a puzzling question."
The dictionaries do not add that conundrums once were a major American household game, and have now been relegated to the half-forgotten, except among children.
So far have they slipped from use that I cannot recall, in the past 30 years, that anyone—except children—have asked me a riddle or conundrum. Perhaps the corn of them are too ripe for today's sense of humor.
For example: Why is a person who reads these conundrums like a man sentenced to death by a firing squad?
Because he is pretty sure to be riddled to death.

Tombstone Found, Owner May Claim
SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—There wasn't a skeleton in the closet of the Mission Beach cottage into which Sean Mooney moved.
But there was a concrete tombstone. Mooney turned it over to police, who placed it in their lost property room.

Reading This Column Likened to Being Punished by Firing Squad

Post-Crescent Staff Writer
BY CHARLES HOUSE
The dictionaries do not yet term the word "conundrum" as "obsolescent," but it is true that the conundrum is no longer used as a parlor game. Once it was a principle form of entertainment, but it has all but died from our lives.
Since, in general, its form is pretty badly corned up there can be little doubt that the corn is one of the contributing factors of the death of conundrums and their cousins, the riddles.
In my boyhood, I loved them intemperately. I remember one, a verse, even though I learned it and loved it long ago:
Little Nancy Netticoat
In her white Petticoat
And her red nose.
The longer she stands.
The shorter she grows.
The answer is a candle.

Now I have been absorbed in a gentle research and I have turned up a plethora of riddles. May I ask them? I do it for the purpose of recalling to you some of the forms, and also for calling back into memory this ancient, dying game.

Counter Irritant

What is a counter irritant?
A woman shopping, naturally.
Why should not a deaf man be legally convicted of a crime?
Because, silly, it is unlawful to condemn a man without a hearing.
And may I ask this remarkable one without fear of being deported?
Why is a former prize fighter like a bee-hive?
Because he is an expounder. And an expounder is a commentator. And a commentator is an Irish tater. And an Irish tater is a speck tater. And a speck tater is a beholder, and a beholder is a bee-hive. So that is why, etc.

Long Time or Short

Would you know why a dog is longer in the morning than he is in the evening?
Why, clearly, because in the morning he is let out. In the evening he is taken in.

Committeemen Approve New City Plat Map economical than the one large map used now.

"The city is getting too big for one map," he commented. "I can't find a wall big enough for it anymore."

In the book each page will be 30 inches square, showing a quarter section, drawn to a scale of one inch equals 100 feet. On the present map one inch equals 300 feet.

Change Sections Only

As new subdivisions are added, the map of the section concerned can be changed without having to make the whole city map over. Pages showing the center portions of the city will remain unchanged.

The committee asked Duszynski why his men could not make the section drawings and save the city the expense.

He said he doesn't have enough help for such a project and that if he took the men off their present jobs it would actually cost the city more.

Committeemen approved the bid of Baur Truck and Equipment, Inc., for a jeep for the street department. The bid of $2,700 was the only one received and is for a vehicle with factory made cab. In the winter it can be used with a small plow to remove snow from city property.

Drew, quite unnerved. The figure kept moving.

As Mrs. Drew began looking for something with which to defend herself against the ghostly apparition, off came the face mask and sheet. Underneath was Mrs. Robin DeLand, 631 E. Pacific St., mother of Mrs. Drew and-grandmother of 13.

Mrs. Henry Le Roux, Northport, frightened by a mouse, jumped for a chair. The chair tipped and Mrs. Le Roux suffered a broken collar bone. No report on the fate of the mouse.

Several Texans over-celebrated whatever it is that Texans celebrate on Mondays and took it upon themselves to start an argument with several Harlem Globetrotters at an Appleton restaurant.

Police told the Texans that a man's color doesn't matter in Appleton and that Globetrotters had the same rights as Texans in this area.

It was at the tag end of Monday's trick or treat festivities. The short figure, draped in a sheet and wearing a face mask of aluminum, thrust the large shopping bag forward.

Mrs. Michael Drew, 1109 N. Douglas St., went into the house, got a "treat", went back to the door and dropped it into the bag. Suddenly the figure started moving forward, into the house. "You're coming in?" asked Mrs.

History Says Winner in Ohio Will be Next U. S. President

BY ART PARKS

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — History indicates the presidential candidates who sell himself to Ohio probably will be the next occupant of the White House.

Only once in this century — in 1944 — has Ohio missed the boat on the presidency.

With that one exception in the last 15 presidential elections, Ohio voters have cut through the welter of state and local candidates and memory of anyone now living. It will provide a classic test of national candidates and issues alone because it is uncluttered by state contests.

Because of a recent constitutional change, there is only one statewide political contest this year. Other state officials are in the middle of four-year terms.

The crosscurrents of the 1960 national campaign in Ohio cut so wide and so deep that even old-time prognosticators admit they are baffled.

It does appear, however, one week before election, that Republicans will continue to dominate the Ohio delegation to the U. S. House of Representatives. The score now stands 14 Republicans, 8 Democrats and 1 vacancy caused by the death of a Democratic incumbent. Barring an unlikely landslide for either Kennedy or Nixon, it would appear neither party stands to gain or lose more than two seats.

Ohio Democratic Chairman William L. Coleman is claiming the state for Kennedy by about 250,000 votes "if the election were being held today, and barring a national emergency."

Bliss and other Ohio Republican leaders reacted with unabashed glee as Nixon hurled barbs at his Democratic rival during a huge two-day whistle-stop swing through Ohio last week. The GOP believes Nixon's new rough-and-ready tactics coupled with the late-campaign timing of the Buckeye State tour will swing Ohio firmly into the Republican column.

Chairman Bliss says: "I believe to the point that some organization people on both sides are wondering: 'Are we kidding our in my predictions, but it's hard selves?'"

Bliss appraised this campaign in depth. I don't want to be pinned down to an exact figure. We will cover some of the industrial counties, but if we lose some of them by a narrow margin, it really will be a victory."

Democratic and Republican organizations alike have conducted their own private polls in areas they regard as "swing" spots—precincts, wards, and counties which have a reputation of regularly reflecting statewide political sentiment. But, as usual, these polls have been followed by complicated arithmetic and weighting

Voilers to Name 57th Governor Next Tuesday

35 Men Have Held High Post Since Dewey in 1848

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — The voters of Wisconsin will choose a state governor for the fifty-seventh time next Tuesday.

Thirty-five men thus far have been elected to the chief executive office of the state. The first governor was chosen in 1848, when the state was admitted to the Federal Union.

When Nelson Dewey won a place in history by being chosen the first governor of the infant state, there were less than 35,000 votes polled. This year the total of voters is likely to be more than 1,500,000.

Typically a Wisconsin governor serves longer than one term.

Terms in Office

Seven men thus far have had three terms in the high office. Ten have won two. Several have retired to go on to other high places in public life, including the Congress.

One governor ran for a fourth term, but he was defeated.

Two governors of the state were sons of men who had been governors before them.

One acting governor of the state served only for a few days. Another died before he could be sworn into office. He was the late Orland S. Loomis of Mauston, elected in 1942.

The first governor of the state, Nelson Dewey, was a quiet man who typified the New England immigrants to the new territory of Wisconsin. His most important achievement was his moderate leadership between the extremist points of view which characterized the politics of his day, and like a river formed by a lot of smaller rivers, and then multiple in the transition from territorial to statehood status. He and, trickles served from 1848 to 1952.

Dr. Molner Discusses Strokes And What to Do About Them

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

By the law of averages, a good many of us will never have occasion to be present when a person has a stroke. By the same law of averages, some of us will.

So I suggest that you stow the following facts away in your memory, just in case.

What is a stroke? It's an interference in the blood supply to some portion of the brain. It may be an embolism, clogging one of the many arteries in the brain. Or it may be a bursting, or a leakage of blood from one of them. Either way, the blood supply to some portion of the brain is shut off completely, death will occur promptly. But that rarely happens. The brain is served by a lot of character-extensive network of arteries—or two.

If the supply should be shut off on a couch or bed or on the floor. The head should be supported slightly by a small pillow, a folded jacket or a towel.

Make sure that his breathing is free: principally, that the tongue has not fallen back to ward the throat. That is just 5 cents in coin to cover handling, about it. The preliminary stage of a stroke ordinarily is not prolonged, and there is nothing, beyond what I have just mentioned, that can be done.

Naturally you will call your doctor right away to tell him what has happened, so he can evaluate, roughly, the severity of the stroke, make arrangements for hospitalization, and prepare for special care if it is required.

No Food Value

"Dear Dr. Molner: My wife has to watch her diet or she would gain two pounds a day. She also knows that salt causes waterlogging in the fat deposits. Yet in the morning she puts so much pepper on her poached egg that you can't see the egg—A.D."

Okay. Let her. Pepper has no food value, and is quite unlike salt. It does not cause water-retention. Of course, if there is any other reason for limiting pepper, such as a diet that requires absence of highly spiced foods, that's another matter.

Varicose Veins

NOTE TO MRS. D.P.: Yes, an operation for varicose veins is best performed in a hospital. It is not an office procedure such as removing a mole or the like.

Count your calories the easy way! To receive a copy of my pamphlet, "The Calorie Chart," write Dr. Molner in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and ward the throat. That is just 5 cents in coin to cover handling, about it. The preliminary stage

Two Obstacles

Coleman's victory forecast indicates a belief Ohio Democrats will be able to overcome two mountainous obstacles:

1. The fact that President Eisenhower carried Ohio for the Republican party by a record of 823,000 votes in 1956, receiving slightly more than 61 per cent of the vote.
2. The companion fact that Democrat Alfred E. Smith, the only previous Roman Catholic nominated for the presidency, was snowed under in Ohio in 1928 by nearly 2-1.

Some Democratic leaders admit privately that they are being hurt in the southern Ohio areas they term the "Bible Belt." But the same leaders say they are confident that normally Democratic, heavily populated industrial areas in northeastern Ohio will more than offset the southern Ohio vote.

Passed His Peak

GOP State Chairman Ray C. Bliss says he believes Kennedy has passed his peak and that Nixon's campaign is moving fast on

Nixon Must Crack Indecision in South

BY SAMUEL LUBELL

If Richard Nixon is to win next Tuesday's election, he must do two things.

He has to win three, if not four, of the heavy voting states of Illinois, Ohio, Pennsylvania and California.

Equally important, he has to crack a good part of the South to offset the likely loss of New York State and perhaps other parts of the industrial East.

In neither—the south nor the industrial North—does Nixon have any political "fat" to spare. The extent of any possible Nixon victory is limited in the South by its traditional Democratic loyalty and in the major industrial states by their heavy Catholic populations.

In short, while Sen. John F. Kennedy can win big, Nixon can hope for little more than to squeeze through.

No Surge for Nixon

This judgment, which reflects my interview results over the past four months, could be upset, of course, by a dramatic final-week upsurge of voter feeling in Nixon's favor.

But as of the end of October, no such surge had shown up among the voters I have interviewed.

Take the South, for example. To test whether sentiment there has changed I sampled six carefully selected precincts in Florida and North Carolina. The net picture that emerged was of neither a Nixon rout nor a Nixon sweep.

I found that Nixon has lost some support during recent weeks, partly because of Kennedy's showing in the TV debates and also because of Henry Cabot Lodge's talk of naming a Negro to the Cabinet.

Still, Nixon was doing well enough in these precincts to have a fair chance—though not much more than that—of carrying both North Carolina and Florida.

In both states—and this holds for the South generally—Nixon's heaviest support comes from the more conservative voters. In Greensboro, N. C., a widow snapped, "I'm for Nixon because I'm not a Socialist."

Again, a 36-year-old hardware dealer in Florida said, "Kennedy has promised the world with a fence around it. But look at the fence. You'll see it's barbed with higher taxes."

A second source of Nixon votes stems from the often-voiced feeling, "If Kennedy is a true Catholic, his Church has to influence him." In one Greensboro precinct four of 30 persons interviewed registered for the first time this year "to vote against the Pope."

But this religious feeling does not stand alone. It merges with or conflicts with economic interest and party loyalty; also it varies from one part of the South to another.

In rural Texas, for example, I found that the townspeople favored Nixon, while the farmers were strongly for Kennedy. In rural North Carolina, the pattern seems just the opposite.

The Undecided

In Burgaw, the county seat of Pender County, Kennedy placards

Wednesday, Nov. 2, 1960 Appleton Post-Crescent B12

and car bumper stickers could be seen everywhere, but I could not find a single Nixon sticker in the whole town. Nor was any town resident working openly for Nixon. The courthouse organization had thrown its weight to Kennedy.

But when I drove out among the tobacco farmers outside of town, I found every fourth one favored Nixon.

In both states a surprisingly large number of voters—one of every six interviewed—said they were either "undecided" or "I might not vote."

This attitude of "we haven't much choice" largely reflects the common feeling that "both men aren't hurting themselves with the colored vote." Many of the "undecideds" or "won't votes" explain "we're waiting to hear what the two men say on segregation." Even a small difference between Kennedy and Nixon on civil rights could shift votes.

Seek Negro Vote

In Pender County, one farmwife declared, "I was talking for Nixon until they started talking of putting a colored man in the Cabinet. I'd rather be run by a Catholic than a black man."

Again, in Jacksonville, a post-office worker was for Nixon "until something Lodge said about a Negro in the Cabinet.

The Democrats are just as bad. I figure I won't vote at all."

Still another Southern uncertainty is how Negroes will vote. During this past year an intensive drive to increase Negro voting has been pressed in most of the South. If Kennedy and Nixon run close, the electoral vote of several Southern states could be settled by what the Negroes do.

No Clear Break

Four years ago Negroes through the South broke spectacularly for Dwight D. Eisenhower. But there is no sign yet that any such break will be repeated this year. Nor is this likely to become clear until election eve. In much of the South the Negro vote swings at the suggestion of its leaders; in other areas it is influenced by how much money is spent.

To sum up, in checking Nixon's prospects in North Carolina and Florida one is struck by how marginal is much of the support he commands. Much of Nixon's backing reflects anti-Kennedy feeling which has been weakened by the TV debates.

Unless Nixon is able to generate a more positive appeal of his own, he will have difficulty holding even his present strength.

Frick Tells AL and NL To Get Together on Any Future Expansion

New Washington, LA Clubs Will Have Special Draft Rights

from the unbeaten Terror JVs, who can clinch at least a tie for the "B" team crown by beating Manty Saturday. "We will pick up some good offensive backs, boys who want to play football. Our JV coaches (Keith Kohlman and Gene VandenHeuvel) do the best job in that league."

Heseltin said the JV upset of Ripon and the Coe triumph gave him a "very pleasant two weeks."

Better Each Week

"Each week our kids have gotten better, against bigger odds," he asserted. "It's been a very happy season."

He called Coe, "by far the best team we've played."

The coach said "all our guys deserve a lot of credit," but three came in for special mention Tuesday, all backs.

The Vikings' 1-2 punch, sophomore running backs Fred Flom (of Menasha) and Carey Wickland, are "two good ball players," according to their coach.

Both starred offensively and defensively against the Kohawks. "Wickland, the smallest guy on the squad, went 60 minutes and he really runs that tailback position. He recovered a fumble 10 yards behind the line of scrimmage from a defensive halfback spot."

Getting Tougher

"Flom is becoming a little tougher all the time. He's still not as rough as Gary Scovel was last year, but he's only a sophomore. On defense, he fills very well."

Appleton's Bob Landis has had the "hardest task of all," according to Bernie.

The junior signal caller, son of the Viking team physician, has been shunted between the first and second team all season, due to injuries to regulars Jim Schulze and Gary Just. "He's probably played 80 per cent of the time," observed Heseltin in admiration for Landis' steady and vital work.

Heseltin felt that Jim Schulze's lengthy absence has made the Appleton senior rusty.

After viewing of the Coe game movies six times, Heseltin reported that senior tackle Bill Whitmore was the game's top Lawrence lineman.

and get together on any future expansion. Frick, openly disturbed over competition for the more lucrative franchises, met with league presidents Joe Cronin and Warren Giles Tuesday and insisted on complete cooperation.

"I don't give a darn about the two leagues," he said. "I don't care who goes where as long as the new cities meet the requirements. Any further expansion steps should be taken jointly. This doesn't mean one league cannot expand without the other. It simply means that one league should let the other know of its plans—and also the commissioner. I'm against secret meetings in which a city suddenly finds it has a major league franchise."

Frick announced a procedure for 1961 staffing of Los Angeles and Washington, the new American League clubs. No provisions were made to supply players for Houston and New York, the new National League clubs, since they are not to operate until 1962.

Special Draft Privileges

Los Angeles and Washington will be entitled to sign free agents and buy or trade players under existing rules. They also will have special draft privileges.

Under normal rules, they would not be permitted to draft, be-happy season.

cause they didn't operate last season. But, at the end of the regular major league draft Nov. 28, they can get two players each at the regular selection price of $25,000 for each contract. In this special draft, not more than one player may be drafted from one club and first year men eligible in the regular draft will be extended.

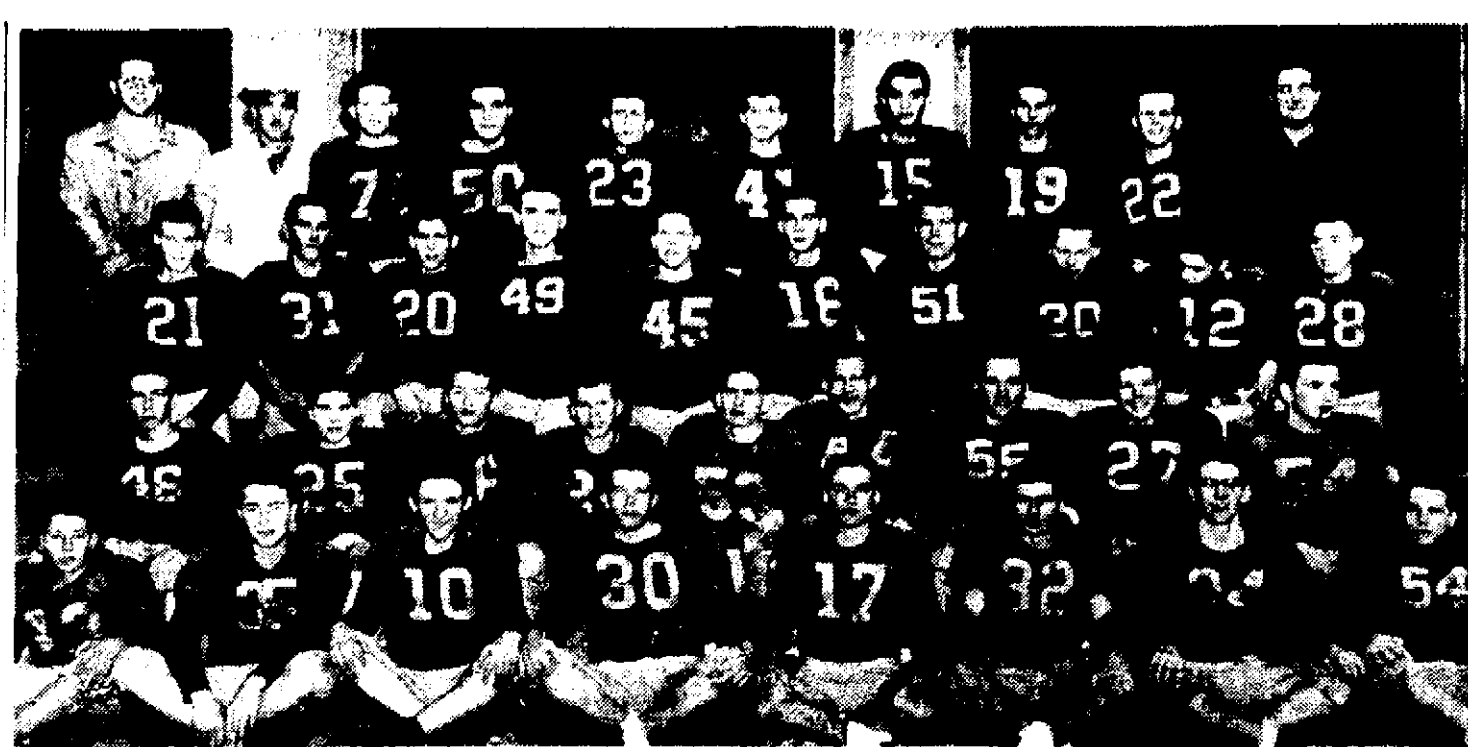

Frick said the American League has agreed on a formula for supplying to them players from the roster of the current eight clubs, but he did not go into details. It is believed that all but 15 players from each club will be made available for purchase. No more than three players may be bought by the newcomer from one club. The price would be $50,000 to $75,000 a player.

"I am convinced the two new clubs will have pretty good ball teams," Frick said. "At first I feared they would have nothing but left-overs and discards. But I know now that the American League will provide them with good, substantial players."

Pick Rinaldi 'Fighter of The Month'

NEW YORK (AP) — Italy's Giulio Rinaldi today was named "fighter of the month" by Ring magazine for his upset decision over light-heavyweight champion Archie Moore in their nontitle bout in Rome last Saturday.

In addition to the honor, the handsome, 25-year-old Italian champion was boosted from fifth to second among the contenders in the 175-pound division in Ring's latest monthly rankings.

Scotland's Chic Calderwood was promoted to No. 1 contender because of the inactivity of Philadelphia's Harold Johnson, who was demoted from first to third.

Rinaldi edged lightweight champion Joey Brown of Baton Rouge, La., for the fighter of the month laurel. Brown retained his crown by easily outpointing Cisco Adrade in 15 rounds.

Alphonse Halimi of France and Eder Jofre jointly were ranked No. 1 in the bantamweight division, although the Frenchman outpointed Ireland's Freddie Gilroy for European recognition as champion.

Steelers' Johnston Is Treated for Injury

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Rookie halfback Rex Johnston Tuesday became the latest Pittsburgh Steeler to miss drills because of an injury.

Johnston received treatment for a badly bruised instep, suffered in last Sunday's game with Green Bay. Steeler officials said John-back John Easterbrook is a little ston won't miss the game with Philadelphia on Sunday.

Bump Elliott Says Illini Haven't Any Weaknesses; 'Duffy' to Try Youngsters

ANN ARBOR (AP) — Not since 1928 has the University of Detroit brook has carried the ball 60 strong together six consecutive times on the option play — and victories in a football season.

But the Titans can accomplish that Friday night by defeating Marquette on the Detroit gridiron. The Marquette-Detroit rivalry is 28 years old, equaling the Detroit-Villanova series in age.

Marquette alumni in the Detroit area have put a black bear barrel into competition to add something to the rivalry. Detroit is favored to topple Marquette to its fifth loss in eight starts, mainly because of sophomore quarterback Jerry Gross, who is passing and running the Titans' offense with brilliant efficiency.

Main Question

Michigan Coach Bump Elliott told the Michigan football writers here Tuesday that the main question facing his Wolverines is "whether we will be ready to play a football game on Saturday."

Michigan entertains Illinois in the game that features the "brother battle" between Bump and his younger brother, Pete, coach of the Illini.

"Illinois has just come through two tough games and won both of them and we know the Illini will be high," said Elliott. "On the other hand, we've had two close ones, and lost both of them. We're wondering what effect this will have on our boys."

Elliott said his brother's team became the latest Pittsburgh Steeler to miss drills because of an injury.

Johnston received treatment for a badly bruised instep, suffered in last Sunday's game with Green Bay. Steeler officials said John-back John Easterbrook is a little ston won't miss the game with Philadelphia on Sunday.

Fetzer Offers Stengel Job As Tiger Pilot

Casey Wants 3 Weeks to Rest, Consider Prospects

DETROIT (AP) — An impatient John E. Fetzer may not be able to wait the three weeks Casey Stengel says it would take him to decide whether he wants to manage the Detroit Tigers.

Fetzer, the club's president and principal owner, made a surprise trip to the West Coast and visited for several hours with Stengel Tuesday.

Fetzer offered Stengel a multi-year contract to become the eighth manager of the Tigers in 10 seasons. But Stengel, 70, fired last month after a dozen seasons as manager of the New York Yankees, said he wanted to think it over. Stengel said he had several offers in baseball but would make no decision for about three weeks because he wanted to "rest and take it easy."

The Tigers have been without a manager since early last month when Joe Gordon stunned them with a surprise resignation. A few days later, Fetzer acquired majority control of the sixth-place team.

Fetzer, who has had Rick Ferrell, his assistant, screening candidates for several weeks, said he decided to take a personal hand in the matter "because we want to get this thing settled and get on with the business of building both games because of his injury," said Stengel.

Wanted to Visit

"I wanted to visit personally with Stengel to get the feel of the man," said Fetzer. "I wanted to discuss things generally with him, and he was courteous and gracious enough to spend some time with me."

"I was very impressed also with his knowledge and background and he expressed a great personal interest in what we are attempting to do in Detroit."

But Fetzer added in a telephone interview from Los Angeles, that Stengel did not express a real interest in managing the Tigers.

"He has a bushel basketful of offers on his desk," Fetzer said. "He is tired and he wants to rest. He doesn't know what he wants to do right now. First, he wants to let the dust settle a bit."

Fetzer said he had no plans to meet again with Stengel, but indicated he might discuss the Tiger job with Bill Rigney, who also resides on the West Coast.

"I have no plans to talk with Rigney," said Fetzer, "but it might turn into that. I don't like the idea of having to wait three weeks. I wouldn't mind if I knew we could get Stengel."

Midwest Swami

Chamberlain Predicts Wins for Iowa and NU

BY CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN CHICAGO (AP) — Putting on Purdue to Illinois and Michigan his fur-lined turban, the Ol' Swami heads into the blasts of November's maddening football game is on the Boilermakers pace. The record so far: 36-9-2 home grounds, where they upset the Buckeyes three weeks ago.

Iowa 14, Minnesota 13 — Reports from Iowa have the hospital jammed with coach Forest Evanshevski's wounded gladiators. But somehow, the Ol' Swami figures they will be taped together in time to hobble on the field at Minneapolis for the battle of the two unbeaten Big Ten giants.

Weather could decide it. But given good conditions, the No. 1 ranked Hawkeyes rate a shade on their explosiveness. Coach Murray Warmath actually has had two weeks to prepare for Iowa. That 44-7 breeze over Kansas State was nothing but a scrimmage.

Ohio State 4, Indiana 7 — The Hoosiers are out-manned, out-classed and on the outside.

Pittsburgh 21, Notre Dame 13 — The Panthers had better not let their claws get dull after surprising Syracuse. The Irish showed signs of life in doing everything but beat Navy.

Detroit 20, Marquette 7 — The Warriors have lost three in a row. They'll have to tighten their loin cloths for another lean weekend.

Illinois 17, Michigan 14 — You couldn't find more angles for a game than this televised football masterpiece provides. Bump Elliott (Michigan) vs. Pete Elliott (Illinois) in sports biggest brother act. Just a hunch that Pete may carry on Ray Elliott's reputation as being a great November coach. The Illini seem to have jelled in their last two starts. A field goal by Jerry Wood could be the difference.

Northwestern 16, Wisconsin 14 — The Badgers' main touchdown supply line has been cut. Pass-catching marvel, Pat Richter, is lost for the season with a broken collar bone. Triggerman Ron Miller is hobbled with bad ankles, handicapping his running threat. Northwestern is finding a new head of steam and is dedicated to breaking a three-game losing streak in the old rivalry.

Purdue 20, Michigan State 18 — Two teams trying to come back.

Let's Go Skiing With Warren Miller, a 1 1/2 hour ski movie in color and sound, will be presented at 8 p.m. Wednesday, Nov. 9, in the Appleton High School auditorium.

The H. C. Prange Co. is sponsoring the movie's showing and will have a short style show in conjunction with the movie to inaugurate the opening of the store's new ski and sport shop.

Profits from the sale of tickets — which are now available at Prange's — will be turned over to the Fox Valley and Mo-Ski-Tow Hill Ski Clubs. Children under 12 will be admitted free.

The film includes footage shot at such sites as Sun Valley, Aspen, Squaw Valley, Yosemite, Chamounix, Zermatt, Snow Valley, Zurs and many others. It will include such skiers as Buddy Werner, Stein Erickson, Betsy Snite, Linda Meyers, Miller and others.

There are slow motion studies of champions in action, an Olympic preview from Squaw Valley and deep powder toboggan rides. Other Miller skiing films have been presented here twice previously.

Title Is Doubtful For Sunday; Waters Brodie's Main Relief

REDWOOD CITY, Calif. (AP) — The San Francisco 49ers took it easy Tuesday with a brief workout, probably the last loafing they'll get before Sunday's National Football League game here with Detroit.

Coach Red Hickey said quarterback Y. A. Tittle was the only regular besides offensive guard Ted Connelly doubtful for Sunday. Tittle, however, probably will be in uniform despite a groin muscle injury. Connelly was operated on for a knee injury.

Hickey said he would continue to work halfback Abe Woodson on offense and that rookie Bobby Waters definitely would do some quarterbacking if something happens to starter John Brodie.

Hartford, Conn. — Steve Ward, 142, Manchester, knocked out Jesse Watson, 140, New York, 9.

Brown Is the Most Popular Of Gophers

235-Pound Guard Gets Crack at Iowa Saturday

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — It's not true, as some of football's more impressionable scouts have reported, that Minnesota's Tom Brown munches enemy halfbacks for breakfast.

"I have a very stable diet," said the amiable giant. "It does not include halfbacks."

It might only happen at Minnesota, where big-shouldered linemen are the toast of the state and dashing halfbacks merely tolerated, but this 235-pound wrecker is the Gopher with the highest popularity and the biggest reputation.

Big Ten scouts, and those from the pro leagues, say he deserves all of it.

Brown and his massive playmates collide with trademark position to pursue a passer. With Iowa Saturday in one of college football's climax games of the season, a struggle of unbeaten Big Ten powers.

Brown is a fearsome sight when he charges from his middle guard the Baltimore Colts.

Young Cassius Clay Thinks Seriously About His Future

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Cassius Clay has had only one professional fight—which he won — but he has definite ideas about his future.

The 18-year-old Olympic gold medal winner added hastily last Saturday, he won easily over Tunney Hunsaker.

He said his first professional fight was "fresher after the fight than I was before."

"I know I'm young and got a lot of time. But man I'm ready," he said.

Hopes for Tie Elliott Boys' Mother Is Impartial Saturday

BLOOMINGTON, Ill. (AP) — Elliott say she is going to do in Ann Arbor Saturday when Michigan and Illinois continue one of the hottest traditional football rivalries in the Big Ten.

She is the mother of the opposing coaches, Bump of Michigan and Pete of Illinois.

The Elliott brothers will be opposing each other for the first time after playing together through Bloomington High School and starting together in Michigan's backfield in the late 1940s. If it were a matter of life and death, I couldn't root for either one, Mrs. Elliott said in an interview. I know each of my boys could use a victory (Michigan is 1-1 in the conference and Illinois 1-2 and will be facing for one. I know a lot of people would be disappointed in a tie. But it would make it awfully easy for me.

Never Played Tie
However, Illinois and Michigan have never played a tie game in their long series.

Mrs. Elliott said there was no problem where she will sit in the huge Michigan stadium.

Bump sent me a ticket to sit on the Michigan side, she said. When Michigan plays at Illinois next year, I'll sit on the Illinois side. I am just going to sit there very quiet and watch. If it's not a tie, I just hope it will be a close game.

Mrs. Elliott will stay with Bump and his family.

Mr. Glenn E. Arthur
Advertising Director
Appleton Post-Crescent
Appleton, Wisconsin

Dear Mr. Arthur:

I'm glad on the "Power of the Post-Crescent" once again. In response to our 35th Anniversary Party advertisement, as terrific! As an added attraction we gave a half-gallon of Borden's ice cream to each car stopping in. A record of cars in 2 days, a record beyond compare. I thought a line up of cars would never end!

Terrell's has been a steady, regular advertiser for many years, featuring Standard and brand names products. (I was fortunate enough to be on the national 1959 grand prize draw of the Service Station campaign this past year.) In celebration of my 35 years for Standard at the same corner I have a letter larger than usual, and it's success proved to be a real success. I have 50 to 60 sales, and even as far as 100. Some cars had to circle the block many times to be able to enter the line in using "and standard".

I want to take this opportunity to thank you and your representative, Dave Derfus, for his excellent service, cooperation, and for the "emotional" ad he helped to prepare. His personal interest and an ability to release more cars was as our advertising man a real pleasure.

Thank you once again for the wonderful part the Appleton Post-Crescent played in helping to make our 35th anniversary celebration the "Happy Anniversary" of 1925-1960.

Very truly yours,

Canada Gas Fields, Wisconsin, Joined At Marshfield

Low Heating Cost, New Industry, More Service Seen by Officials

BY DAVID SCHAEFER
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

MARSHFIELD — Late Tuesday morning a group of about 40 men stood in the shelter of a tent erected in a field about four miles from here.

As they listened to a series of speeches by gas company presidents, Gov. Gaylord Nelson and Rep. Melvin Laird, they stamped their feet to drive out the cold and turned up their collars against the cold drizzle.

When the speeches were over the men turned to a machine that looked like a modern version of an old water pump. The governor, Rep. Laird and the gas company presidents all took a turn at the pump and as flash-bulbs popped a valve opened and Wisconsin became connected to the natural gas fields at Alberta, Canada.

The men moved to a large building where two switches were turned on and in a moment the building vibrated with the roar of two giant compressors that will boost the gas from the Canadian fields to homes and industries in Wisconsin.

Thirty-four Wisconsin communities received natural gas for the first time and many other communities, including the Fox Cities, have an increased gas supply, a supply that gas company officials hope will attract industry to convert to gas heating. In some instances it may mean a lower cost of natural gas for home consumers.

As the gas company executives celebrated the completion of their $109 million project and the dedication of the $2 million compressor industrial area, the south, and possibly the coasts.

There also is the possibility of present industries, such as the paper industry, expanding and converting to natural gas, he added.

McElvenny explained that new industries attracted by a large gas supply include anything that needs heat processing, specifically tile, brick, porcelain and glazed goods and possibly clothing.

Paper Machines

The extent to which the industries will be attracted to the area depends on a number of things, McElvenny added, and now is only a matter for speculation. But he indicated that the Fox Cities are in a good position to attract industry to serve the Lake Michigan complex.

John Cota, president and general manager of Winnebago Natural Gas Co. in Kaukauna, said two machine companies currently are experimenting with paper-making machines that utilize natural gas rather than steam for drying, and have found that the size of the machine can be greatly reduced and the machine can be run about three times faster.

Natural gas also has been used by a farm equipment manufacturer to dry and harden paint on a mass-production basis so finish isn't damaged in shipment, Cota said.

$30 Million Job

Two paper companies served by Cota's firm now are using natural gas in processing, he said, and the main drawback to it had been the fact that an adequate supply was not available.

Projecting the impact of the Canadian natural gas supply on a 10 or 15-year basis is difficult, executives agreed. The supply is here. There probably will be price adjustments to the home consumer, but exact figures can't be quoted yet.

One of the major effects of the line already has taken place. About $30 million was poured into Wisconsin during construction of the pipeline and its facilities. New jobs were created and more are likely to be created as the service expands.

Another factor, of course, is that when the compressors were turned on at Marshfield, Canadian gas was being supplied to 34 cities for the first time. Among these communities are Bear Creek, Clintonville, Hortonville, New London, Seymour, Shawano, Waupaca and Weyauwega.

Wisconsin is now connected to the Texas and Oklahoma panhandle fields, the Louisiana and off-shore island oil fields and, as of yesterday, the Alberta fields.

The Natural Gas pipeline between the Canadian oil fields and Wisconsin was opened Tuesday at ceremonies at a $2 million compressor station near Marshfield. Operating the pump which opened the valve between the sections of pipe are Gov. Gaylord Nelson and Ralph T. McElvenny, Detroit, president of the Michigan Wisconsin Pipe Line Co. In the background is Rep. Melvin Laird, Marshfield.

broken leg and hip, facial lacerations, head injuries and shock.

Mrs. Agnes Buckmaster, 56, Manitowoc, was killed and Mrs. Rose Aleff, 51, Sheboygan, was injured last night when their car struck a semi-trailer truck in Green Bay.

The Buckmaster car skidded halfway under the rear of the truck. The car was dragged about 100 feet by the truck. Three heavy-duty wreckers were called in to assist in removing the dead woman from the wreckage.

Mrs. Buckmaster died from a broken neck and skull fracture when her auto was literally torn apart under the mass of the huge truck trailer. She was taken to a Green Bay hospital in the fire department rescue squad truck but she was pronounced dead on arrival.

Mrs. Aleff was taken from the wreck earlier and rushed to the hospital by ambulance.

The fatal crash took place as Mrs. Buckmaster was driving east on Day Street and met the semi-trailer truck at N. Quincy Street. The truck was operated by Walter R. Bickel, 37, Green Bay.

Bickel told police that he was past the intersection when he saw the headlights of the car go under the trailer he was pulling.

The driver of the truck following Bickel's said that he saw the car pass through the stop sign at a high rate of speed.

The force of the crash against the high-set trailer peeled back the top of the car like a tin can. The truck's large spare wheel which was horizontally mounted under the trailer floor was inside the front seat area of the car where the two women were riding. Over it was the weight of 23,000 pounds of pulp paper being transported.

Why the women's car struck the truck with such force could not be explained by police. There were no skid marks from the car, thus indicating that Mrs. Buckmaster never saw the approaching truck or noticed the arterial stop sign at the corner. There is a street light at the intersection and the pavement was dry, police noted.

The two Fox River Valley fatalities and a Milwaukee death raised the state highway toll to 718 compared with 684 on this date a year ago.

Singler Says His Farm Plan Would Save $6 Billion

Milo Singler, Democratic candidate for congress, said Tuesday in Appleton his self-help farm program would eliminate government subsidies and save the taxpayers nearly $6 billion a year.

Singler added that the program would "get the government out of the farming business, give the farmers control of their own program, save the family farm and bring farm prices in line with other prices."

"My opponent, Mr. Byrnes," he said, "apparently is more interested in protecting the income of wealthy warehouse owners than restoring stability in agriculture. He knows that warehouse owners are getting the real financial benefits from the present Byrnes-Benson bankruptcy program."

"This," he said, "is the real reason he refuses to debate with me after calling my farm program 'sheer bunk and hokum.'"

"He also knows that all the farm leaders and farm organizations in Wisconsin, except one, supported my program in 1957 and I'm sure they still will," he said.

Expenses Over 1960 Budget, Report Shows

Greater Revenues Aid Operations At Little Chute

LITTLE CHUTE — The Finance Committee reported that as of Tuesday the village expenditures for this year had exceeded the 1960 budget by approximately $1,000 with still two months to go.

The committee said that unexpected expenditures in certain areas during the year accounted for the expense. However, it was explained, the village is not expected to have to borrow any funds to operate for the rest of the year.

This is possible because anticipated revenues have been greater than expected and there is a bank balance at the present time. Several other revenue checks also are expected within the next month, the committee said.

In other action it was announced that there will be a leaf pickup by the village crew on Nov. 9, 10 and 11. Residents will be asked to rake leaves to the terraces and if possible put them in containers. A village ordinance prohibits the burning of leaves on streets or in gutters.

Gals Rebel At Loss of Beer Break
LONDON (AP) — Twenty-six women who make a beer shampoo staged a one-hour walkout yesterday because the firm barred them from drinking beer on their tea break.

Bearing aloft a banner with the words "we want our beer break," the women marched to a pub and had their beer.

The manageress, Mrs. Connie Danbury, 47, said the girls had started dipping their tea cups into one of the barrels of beer used for the shampoo.

"They're a wonderful crowd of workers," she continued, "and the beer break boosted their morale. So I started ordering an extra gallon a week for them to drink. Then the boss found out and said it had to stop."

"I can't have women drinking beer at work," said Eric Lincoln, the firm's 48-year-old managing director. "If word got around, we'd have drunks coming here for jobs."

Council Refers 1961 Recreation Budget to Finance Committee

Director Prepares Detailed Breakdown For First Time in City's History

KAUKAUNA — A recreation department budget calling for expenditures of $39,615 in 1961 compared to $38,425 this year, was referred to the Finance Committee for study at a council meeting Tuesday night.

For the first time in the history of the city, James Gertz, recreation director, submitted a detailed budget for study by aldermen. Previously most expenses were lumped into a single bracket, necessitating considerable discussion between Finance Committee members and the director before the budget was approved.

Expenses were dropped slightly for 1961, in some areas, to permit inclusion of a $2,000 outlay for a pick-up truck, according to Gertz. Many of the figures remain the same as revealed in this year's bookkeeping ledger.

Budget Breakdown
Swimming pool operation for 1961 was estimated at $11,899. Total cost was $15,474 less $3,575 in receipts. Major item is salaries for lifeguards, attendants and supervisors, total cost $10,900.

Operation of the playgrounds including baseball, softball, archery, tennis, tot lot and summer basketball was listed at $17,115 less $1,550 receipts, making the city cost $15,565. Of this, $10,250 is for salaries.

Men's and boys' basketball, volleyball and softball during the winter was estimated to cost $2,500, less $475 receipts, making the Anita Reed, Wife of the Author, stands beside the statue of a wild goose which overlooks the new Trans-Canada Highway just outside the bush country community of Wawa. The town's name is an Ojibwa Indian term meaning wild goose. The statue was unveiled when the last section of highway was opened this fall.

Journey Into Canada—II

Bush Country Town Changes With Boom in Tourist Travel

BY JAY REED
Post-Crescent Outdoor Editor

WAWA, Ont., — Opening of the new Trans-Canada Highway has hit this Ontario bush country community like another gold strike.

For the first time since a Michipicoten Indian named William Teddy found what was thought to be a rich vein of gold here 62 years ago, the town has unlimited access to the outside world.

This reporter saw Wawa (population 4,200) for the first time on a Sunday night just as dusk was wrapping itself around the spruce and jack pine which cover the hills here for as far as the eye can see. Its unpaved streets, muddy from recent rain, were crowded with cars, and people milled about along the store fronts.

Until the coming of Trans-Canada, there was no need for Wawa to have paved streets. It was a mining town deep in the heart of the Canadian bush. The community's only link with the outside world was a railroad.

Discovered Gold

Wawa was born in 1898 when gold was discovered across a little bay at the southwest corner of Wawa Lake. The vein, however, was not a good one but miners did discover rich deposits of iron and the community developed into the Algoma Steel Corporation's chief mine.

The mine will continue to be this community's major industry but drastic changes are coming to Wawa which are bound to affect the town's economy and each of its citizens. For one thing, thousands of persons who never before knew Wawa existed will one day walk its streets and spend money in its stores. Most of these travelers will be tourists who want to see from a car window some of the most rugged bush country this Canadian province has to offer. But there will be others, too. Hunters and fishermen are certain to come in great numbers. For Trans-Canada now makes available to them for the first time vast tracts of untouched lake and stream country. And Wawa is preparing itself. Its main street is torn up from one end to the other in preparation for curb and gutter installation. Then will come the paving. New buildings are being erected. One will house a coin-operated laundry. Another is the site of a new restaurant. The Lakeside Hotel, which overlooks Lake Wawa, is adding another wing. Business interests, we were told, already are scouting sites for several motels.

Problems Created

But all of this has created problems, too. The wife of the owner of the Lakeside Hotel told us her waitresses and cook quit because "There's too much work now." With the cook and the waitresses went the hotel's chambermaids. And that problem is not unique. We ate in a restaurant across the street the night we arrived. It was crowded and business appeared good. The next day it did not reopen. All the help had quit.

The word "wawa" is an Ojibwa Indian term meaning wild goose. The community, appropriately enough, has erected a gigantic statue of a wild goose on a hill overlooking the Trans-Canada Highway. The bird's beak points directly out toward a huge basin offering scenery of almost unbelievable beauty. Through it all winds the black ribbon which spells change for Wawa.

Friendly Town

Today the community is a friendly town. People pause to

Postmaster Put On Probation

Former Watertown Official Admits Embezzling Funds

MADISON (AP)—A three-year probationary sentence for embezzlement has been ordered for Robert W. Lueck Jr., former Watertown postmaster described by his attorney as a man who "when he had to pay Peter he went to Paul."

Lueck, 46, was charged with converting $620 in postal funds to his private use on Oct. 16, 1959, and another $400 on Nov. 30, 1959. He pleaded guilty before U.S. District Judge Patrick T. Stone, who said restitution would be a condition of the probation.

Plea For Mercy

Harold Dakin of Watertown, Lueck's attorney, made a 20-minute plea for mercy before the court. He said Lueck was a man hopelessly caught in financial difficulties dating back to 1947, the year he was released from military service.

"He doesn't drink or gamble," Dakin said. "Money just dribbled through his fingers...and when he had to pay Peter he went to Paul."

Lueck is the father of two children. His wife is a former school teacher.

U.S. Atty. George Rapp said Lueck hid the shortages by altering duplicate deposit slips for 417 N. Durkee St., said a prowler ward to the Federal Reserve Bank in Minneapolis.

Sturm will tell of the 11-month tour of 93 countries and territories he took while Lions president and talk about "developing mutual understanding and peace."

Prowler Reported

The second prowler in a home in two days was reported to police early Tuesday. Roland Schulz, 417 N. Durkee St., said a prowler in a raincoat entered the eight-apartment building.

Man Uses Spear Gun Against Love Rival

SECAUCUS, N.J. (AP)—A man was arrested Monday night after allegedly trying to destroy a love rival with a spear gun.

Henry C. Von Hassel, 26, was charged with attempted murder. Police said he fired a spear gun commonly used for underwater fishing at Robert Muller, also 26, but that it hit the fender of Muller's car.

Von Hassel allegedly accused Muller of dating Von Hassel's wife. Muller is also married.

Von Hassel was held without bail pending a hearing.

TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 8!

BY DAVID BROOKER
Post-Crescent City Editor

Ben-Hur, opening today at the Viking Theater, is one of those films no self-respecting movie fan would miss.

It may not be the best movie of all time — although many viewers will rate it right up there — but it certainly is the most—the most of everything.

The size of the production is overwhelming, but skillful direction has kept the mechanics of the thing from overshadowing what is a tender, touching story of a man's selfless and great love for his family and his people.

Author Gen Lew Wallace called his book "a tale of the Christ," but the carpenter of Nazareth is seldom seen or heard. However, the tremendous impact of his personality on those who come in contact with him is the real meat of this story.

Many "Bests"

Charlton Heston deservedly won the Academy Award as best actor of the year for his outstanding job as Judah Ben-Hur, Prince of the house of Hur, whose whole life was changed by an accident for which he was not responsible.

Hugh Griffith, from Wales, was named best supporting actor for his cunning portrayal of the Sheik Ilderim and almost steals the show from some of the better-known stars.

These are only two of the 11 Academy Awards received by the picture and it probably would have won more if there had been more to pass around. It also nailed down half dozen or so other "best" titles.

Other outstanding acting jobs are turned in by Stephen Boyd as Messala, boyhood friend of Ben-Hur who returns to Jerusalem as an ambitious, unscrupulous garrison commander willing to sacrifice everything to get ahead; Haya Harareet, the lovely Esther, whose love and sacrifice is exceeded only by that of Ben-Hur himself; and Jack Hawkins as Quintus Arrius, the Roman naval commander, and a real stinker, too, who recognizes the strength and spirit of galleys slave Ben-Hur and later takes the hero as his son and heir.

Latin Names

Some of the names are enough to make a Latin scholar blanch, but it is a tribute to the skill of the performers that within the first few moments of the four-hour film they become as easy to accept as Tom, Dick or Mary.

The scope of the production is pretty clear if you know that: More than 300 sets were constructed; a man-made lake was dug and two full-sized Roman galleys placed on it for the sea battle sequence; a staff worked two years in Rome acquiring more than a million props; something like 25,000 people appear in front of the cameras; and the arena for the chariot race scenes covered 18 acres with 1,500-foot straightaways. It took three months to shoot the race alone — to say nothing about training 78 horses.

The chariot race is, of course, the BIG scene in Ben-Hur. But there are many other good ones — tender love scenes, others that ring pity from your heart or bring you up with a gasp of surprise and shock.

This is no movie for the tender-hearted who are repelled by man's nastiness or become sick at the sight of blood, but it is top-rate entertainment that will remind you it's been a long time since you saw one as good as "Gone With the Wind."

Tryouts for Two Attic Theater Plays Underway

Attic Theater tryouts for its two remaining plays of its winter season are being held this week at the home of Mrs. Ted Cloak, director, 122 N. Union St.

The community theater will present an original drama by Attic member James Auer, "Menasha, The City of Lights," in early February, and in April, an American shortened version by Paul Green of Ibsen's "Peer Gynt."

Tryouts for parts in both plays are at 7:30 p.m. today, Thursday and Friday at the Cloak home. They are open to any person with a hearing aid and are not limited to present Attic Theater members.

Both plays will be given pros and cons on the stage of the Stansbury theater rather than in sanna on the eve of her wedding. Attic's traditional arena form.

Nekoosa-Edwards Sales Show Rise, Earnings Decline

Sales of $34,372,250 for the first nine months of 1960 were reported by Nekoosa-Edwards Paper Co., producer of business papers.

Although sales showed a slight increase over the $34,131,667 reported for the same period in 1959, earnings dropped from $2,376,911 last year to $1,965,828 for the nine months this year.

Paper shipments during the first nine months were 108,926 tons, compared with 109,242 tons for the 1959 period.

John E. Alexander, president and general manager, said nine-months operation has been satisfactory and modest improvement in sales is expected in the fourth quarter. He cautioned, however, that "marked improvement in performance cannot be expected until paper demand more nearly approaches paper capacity."

Pays for Drunkenness
Walter Wartac, 57, Milwaukee, was fined $15 in Municipal Court Tuesday for drunkenness. He was arrested by county police Saturday in the Town of Grand Chute.

New Ballroom Being Planned To Seat 1,000

Sylvester Esler to Construct $200,000
Building Soon

Sylvester "Connie" Esler today announced plans are nearing completion for construction of a ballroom to seat 1,000 people on property on or near the Rainbow Gardens on Highway 96.

Esler owns Rainbow Gardens and surrounding land. The structure will serve as a ballroom, banquet and convention hall, Esler indicated, and will cost approximately $200,000.

Plans prepared by R. E. Kelly, Neenah architect, and Esler, have been completed and approved by the state. Esler is a pioneer in the ballroom business in Wisconsin, a charter member of the National Ballroom Operators Association and has served on the board of directors for the organization for 10 years. He is president of the Wisconsin Ballroom Operators Association.

The structure will have a sunken dance floor and two or more weddings or banquets of 500 each could be accommodated comfortably, Esler said.

Work on the fireproof structure will begin this fall or early next spring, with a fall, 1961, opening planned.

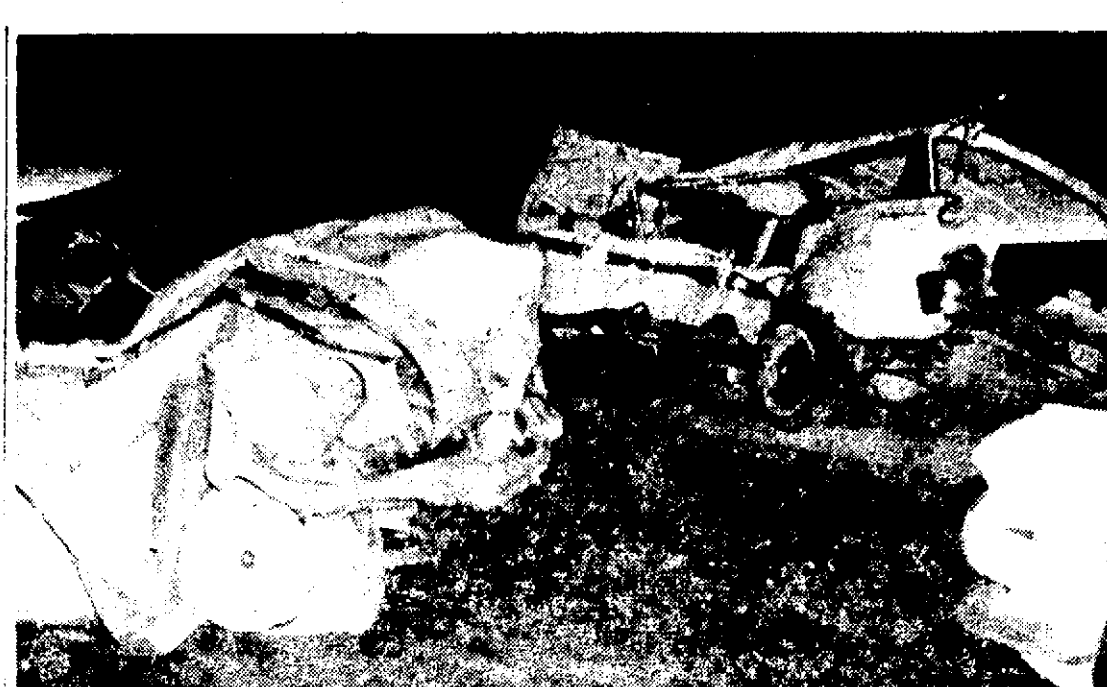

Esler, well known throughout the state, has booked major attractions at Bay Beach, Green Bay for eight summers, opened the Waverly Beach Ballroom in 1935, and brought name bands to the Oshkosh Eagles, Mayflower Lake at Wausau, Fond du Lac and Waupaca.

He operated the Nitingale Ballroom on Highway 96 at McCarty's Crossing near Kaukauna for many years before the building burned early in the 1950s. He then purchased the Hotel Appleton, which he ran until he sold it last month to a newly formed corporation headed by Alex J. Manier, Appleton.

Chiropractors Honor
Hortonville Couple

George and Leola Garriott, husband and wife chiropractors from Hortonville, received the annual Journalism Award from the Society of Wisconsin Chiropractors at its annual convention in Waukesha.

Articles by them have appeared in the National Chiropractic Association Journal, the State Society's Journal, and other chiropractic publications.

The Left Side of the Louis Erbe station wagon was crushed and Erbe, 79, a prominent New Holstein civic leader, was killed when the car skidded broadside into the path of a car driven by Mrs. Alois Halbach Sr., 52, route 2, Chilton, south of Chilton on County Trunk H about 4:40 p.m. Tuesday. Mrs. Halbach and her daughter, Ruth, 11, are in serious condition at Calumet Memorial Hospital, Chilton. Ruth's head broke through the windshield. (Story on Page 1).

Foreign Issue In Election

BY JOHN WYNGAARD
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

TOURING WISCONSIN — An attempt to isolate the political issues upon which the Wisconsin elections will swing this fall produces a wide range of topics, but foreign relations and foreign affairs clearly rank at the top of the list.

Historically Wisconsin has been known as an "isolationist" district. Some of that reputation — especially in the distant opinion-making centers of American publishing—derives from reactions and voting patterns decades old, many of them dating back to World War I. There is little to show that this community attitude, if once held, persists today. Any effort to ascertain the electoral temper today shows a lively concern over America's place in the world, the challenge of Soviet imperialism, peace, and related military security questions.

Peace Mentioned

The word "peace" turns up with interesting frequency when the reporter travels about Wisconsin, interviewing local politicians, newsmakers, community leaders.

The issue of America's comparative strength and prestige in international relations evidently has caught on—as a result of Sen. Kennedy's campaign—but there is also a strong response to Vice President Nixon's campaign theme that he is the most experienced and qualified of the candidates in relation to world affairs.

On balance, the listening reporter is inclined to believe that the vice president has the advantage in Wisconsin on the foreign affairs arguments, and that if the election here goes to Kennedy it will be the subsidiary issues, including economic problems and notably agriculture that will turn the trick for him.

Religious Influence

An account of a tour would not be complete, moreover—without the report that a suggestively large number of local political informants believe that the religious influence will affect more individual votes than any other issue, including that of foreign policy.

But most of them add that the religious influence will be comparatively strongest among voters not closely informed on international and national affairs questions.

The vote-pulling power of issues varies considerably according to zone and character of the population. In farm districts generally rural editors name it high on their own lists of potent factors—although most of them also join it with the foreign affairs question.

Closer inquiry shows, however, that there is little real comprehension of the complex and wordy farm positions of the political parties. Generally there is a belief that the Democrats are more willing than are the Republicans to pump money from the U.S. treasury into the pocketbooks of the farmer in the time of his market troubles.

Economic Issues

In the cities and especially in working class sections domestic economic issues are important—although not as vital as some of the local politicians have assumed. There, too, there is a prevailing awareness of the difficulties of the nation in world politics that suggests that both Mr. Nixon and Mr. Kennedy are in tune with public opinion when they slant their own campaign speeches predominantly toward world relations.

The reporter gets a feeling, in fact, that the Republican campaign would be in considerably poorer shape if the country did not have foreign problems today, and the campaign was based wholly upon domestic legislative proposals and domestic economic problems.

One possible "sleeper" in the campaign, in the view of some experienced Main Street observers, is the growing ratio of elderly in the voting population, and the feeling that the elderly people are more likely to vote than some of their younger compatriots. Democrats generally are sure that they have a lead on the affections of elderly citizens with their governmental plans for medical and hospital care to the aged. Republican vote-getters are uncertain, and in their uncertainty they may betray a concern.

Rural Shiocton Youths Fined for Deer Shining

Two rural Shiocton youths were fined $115 each for shining deer and carrying uncased guns in their car when they appeared in Municipal Court Tuesday. They also lost the right to hunt for the next three years.

Samuel Sykes, 17, route 2 Shiocton, and Roland Suprise, 18, route 1, Shiocton, were fined $100 for deer shining and $15 on the gun charge. Sykes' gun also was confiscated by game wardens for the next 40 days.

The youths were arrested Friday in the Town of Maine.

William Van Den Bogart, 19, 515½ Northland Ave., was fined $15 for having an uncased gun in his car Oct. 22 in the Town of Freedom.

Don Fritz, 31, 421 E. Wolf River St., New London, was fined $10 for having a set line in the river after Sept. 30 in New London Oct.

A statehouse reporter finds with the statehouse. But he appears mild surprise that state political issues, as such, are indifferently understood, and for the most part, subordinated by questions of national policy and world conflicts.

The one issue that has got through to the voter in significant degree is that of state finance — but if there is a trend in the reactions it cannot be reliably spotted. There is an awareness of financial difficulty in Madison, but the details are blurred.

Gov. Nelson, head of the Democratic state administration, has in his position, including his de-chosen will come to the state capitol, and in a solemn, but election results has been criticized and there have been proposals for an electoral

But he appears to have neutralized the result by avoiding a new general tax program during his first term, and dismissing the future with references — usually only when directly queried — to his tax revision study commission of prestigious advisors.

Philip Kuehn, his Republican opponent, has been talking over the heads of the average voters in his recurring demand for state tax revision, the traveler is inclined to believe after samplings around the state. He is also identified as an advocate of a general sales tax. The qualifications do not. The Wisconsin electors chosen will come to the state capitol, and in a solemn, but election results has been criticized and there have been proposals for an electoral

MADISON — Twelve persons will cast the vote of Wisconsin for president this year.

They are the candidates of the two Wisconsin political parties for membership in the federal electoral college, which will elect the next president according to the results of the popular elections on Nov. 8.

Theoretically the members of the "college" assemble to make the selection of the president and the vice president. Actually they do not. The Wisconsin electors chosen will come to the state capitol, and in a solemn, but election results has been criticized and there have been proposals for an electoral

Czechs Agree to Double Credits To Castro Regime

MOSCOW (AP) — Czechoslovakia has agreed to double its credit its to Cuba in the next five years, from $20 million to $40 million, Cuban Economic Boss Ernesto (Che) Guevara told the Soviet news agency Tass today.

Guevara, president of the National Bank of Cuba, heads an economic mission that is visiting several Communist countries. He is now in Moscow.

Guevara said his main purpose in the Soviet Union would be to reach agreement on specific imports from Russia. 81 per cent of which will be paid for in Cuban sugar.

The report said the Soviet Union will import one million tons of Cuban sugar, apparently knocking down rumors current in Havana before Guevara left that he might try to sell Cuba's entire crop of about six million tons to the Russians.

New Substation Put Into Service On Southwest Side

NEENAH — A $100,000 automatic substation on Neenah's southwest side was put into operation today by the Wisconsin - Michigan Power Co. The substation is located on W. Winnebago Avenue.

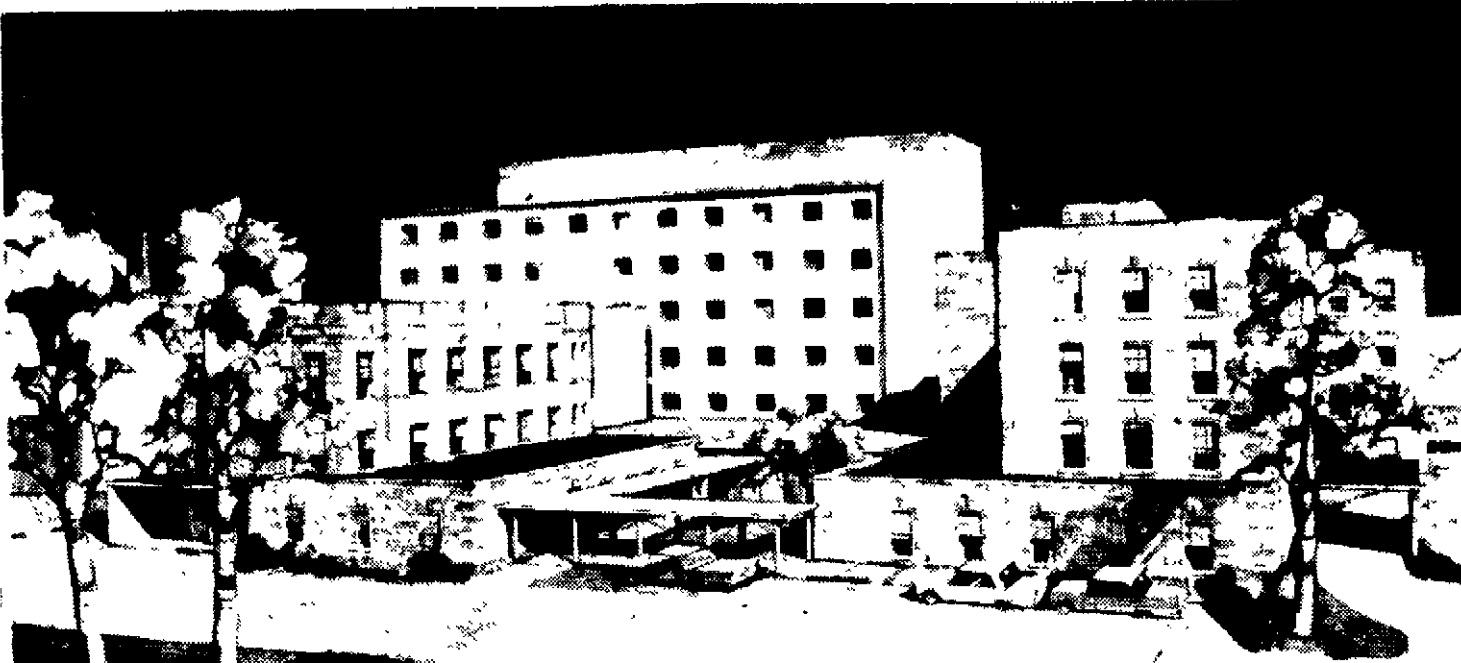

The installation has built-in lightning and overload protection to minimize service interruptions caused by electrical storms. The new equipment automatically will return a circuit to service after a lightning strike or shorting out caused by high winds and falling branches, unless some permanent damage has been done. With the old equipment it was necessary to send a crew to the scene to locate and replace fuses blown during a storm.

Modern voltage regulating facilities are designed to hold power supply constant as demand fluctuates at any time during the day or night. The new station is intended to reinforce present service in the area and provide additional capacity for future growth.

Expect January Opening of Bids for Hospital Addition

Construction May Start in Early Spring

NEENAH — Opening of bids for the $2,500,000 addition to The Theda Clark Memorial Hospital is anticipated the later part of January with construction expected to start in early spring, Gerald Aldridge, hospital administrator, said today.

Final review of the more than 125 pages of blueprint drawings and 500 or more pages of specifications is underway now. After that final specifications will be prepared by the architects with copies going to the contractors early in December.

While original plans were for a two-stage construction project, they now have been revised. Work is expected to start in four areas. One will be for the new X-ray department, a one-story unit west of the present main entrance and extending along Lincoln Street toward First Street.

The therapy department will be expanded with another one-story addition south of the wing which now juts toward the bridge and where the present overcrowded therapy department is housed. The main project will be the six-story hospital bed wing, extending south behind the 1948 addition. Hospital bed needs will determine if the top two floors will be completed but all extensions will be stubbed in. The fourth project will be expansion of the boiler house and incinerator.

When those projects are completed the original 1909 structure will be demolished and the new entrance and lobby constructed. The hospital is being planned for economy of operation and convenience of both the patient and the staff, not only for the present but for future expansion. The 2609 section has no basement and razing of that section is the only practical way to provide free flow of traffic from one section to the other, Aldridge explained.

Remodeling There also will be some remodeling in the 1921 and 1948 additions, largely interior. The present main entrance will become the emergency entrance with the main entrance to be opposite the parking area acquired by the hospital along Second street.

When completed the ground floor or basement will house the laundry, central sterile supply, the said Williams was confident this dietary section — the area where there is a lot of cart traffic keeping it away from the patient area.

The first floor will house the fair to the ones who complied if diagnostic and clinical departments with the present elevators corrections go. However, he said, limited largely for patient service.

Construction May Start in Early Spring

NEENAH — Opening of bids for the $2,500,000 addition to The Theda Clark Memorial Hospital is anticipated the later part of January with construction expected to start in early spring, Gerald Aldridge, hospital administrator, said today.

Final review of the more than 125 pages of blueprint drawings and 500 or more pages of specifications is underway now. After that final specifications will be prepared by the architects with copies going to the contractors early in December.

While original plans were for a two-stage construction project, they now have been revised. Work is expected to start in four areas. One will be for the new X-ray department, a one-story unit west of the present main entrance and extending along Lincoln Street toward First Street.

The therapy department will be expanded with another one-story addition south of the wing which now juts toward the bridge and where the present overcrowded therapy department is housed. The main project will be the six-story hospital bed wing, extending south behind the 1948 addition. Hospital bed needs will determine if the top two floors will be completed but all extensions will be stubbed in. The fourth project will be expansion of the boiler house and incinerator.

NHS Band To Salute Servicemen

NEENAH — A band program at 7:30 p.m. Nov. 9 will highlight the American Education Week observance at Neenah High School. The band, under the direction of Albert Schulze, will perform "Uncle Sam in Review," a one-hour salute to American servicemen. The emphasis will be on music of the servicemen from the Revolutionary war to the present.

Folk music of parallel times also will be featured. Part of the program will be an explanation of how music is written, what it means and why a particular form of music was popular when it was.

A social hour will be held in the old gym after the band program. Parents will have an opportunity to meet with teachers.

Schools Close NEENAH — Neenah and Menasha public schools will be closed Thursday and Friday to permit teachers to attend the Wisconsin State Teachers Convention in Milwaukee.

Long-Range Plan Supv. Norbert Reddin, Neenah, explained he attached his name to the resolution because the board showed good faith. He hoped all last Friday committed itself to corrections would be made before the present airport. "We should have long-range planning. This is not committing ourselves but seeking what we can do in the future." The mayor pointed out that in some cases he noted people had wing splash boards that sloped the wrong direction — toward the house. "These are worse than east-west runway with only 5,000 feet functional feet was nothing to brag about," he said. "We have run into a few hard cases," he added. "Steps will probably be taken to work out a system to assist those persons to extending toward the west and comply with the ordinance without excessive hardship."

23 Notices He said he toured one southwest side area where 23 notices had been sent. "Eleven home owners have already complied with the requirements." The mayor would take a considerable load off the sanitary sewers.

He said the ordinance would be enforced because it would not be to the ones who complied if diagnostic and clinical departments with the present elevators corrections go. However, he said, limited largely for patient service.

Home Check Started for Sewer Leakage

Corrections Asked On Eave Troughs, Down Spout Drains

NEENAH — An inspection of homes in Neenah has been started by Carlton Williams, building inspector, and William Tuttle, Jr., plumbing inspector, to find where eave troughs are lacking or where down spouts do not drain far enough from the house.

Mayor Chester S. Bell said the inspections were being made to eliminate storm water drainage into sanitary sewers. This situation exists in homes with basement drains that have floor drains. The mayor said post card notices are being sent to homes where corrective measures are needed. "I was surprised and delighted," Mayor Bell said, "at the extent to which people have begun to comply with the ordinance, despite the brief time since notices were sent."

Seek Additional Runway Extension

Board Wants Information On Rerouting of Highway 26

OSHKOSH — By a unanimous voice vote this morning the Winnebago county board voted to ask the state highway commission for the procedure to be followed in rerouting Highway 26 so that the north-south runway of the county airport can be extended farther than now being planned.

The resolution presented by five supervisors proposes extending the runway to a minimum of 6,000 feet.

The board Tuesday afternoon voted to extend the runway to 5,160 feet which brings it up close to west runway because of the wind direction.

Supv. William Kelsh, Oshkosh, one of the five introducing the resolution said the county must look ahead to 1970 because planes will be larger and heavier and will be carrying heavier loads. He said four engine jet cargo planes soon will be competing with trunk lines on an equal basis of freight rates.

Supv. Gordon Hanson, Town of Winchester said, "I thought we heard the other day from a fellow who knew the airport would be okay for years to come. Who will pay for rerouting State Highway 26? There is no question but it will be the county. This case does not coincide with what we heard the other day."

Chairman Joseph Drexler, Oshkosh, said he saw nothing wrong with looking into the future. "I am heartily in favor of this resolution. We should be in a position to move when the time comes and not have any obstruction."

Long-Range Plan Supv. Norbert Reddin, Neenah, explained he attached his name to the resolution because the board showed good faith. Women Can Help 'Clean Up Politics,' NU Lecturer Says

NEENAH — Politics is getting cleaner, better, due in part to cause "they never come out with a selfish point of view. They don't give women the right to vote. They don't want women to vote anyway, he commented.

Megellas Sets Hectic Pace in Whirlwind Tour Around County

BY DON CASTONIA
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

NEENAH — James Megellas, Democratic candidate for Sixth district congressman, may have had another motive besides meeting voters when he scheduled five coffee hours Friday.

On a 24-hour "campaign-athon" in Winnebago County, Megellas undoubtedly used the coffee to good advantage to fortify himself for the long day and night ahead.

The unique non-stop effort to gain votes started at 6 a.m. Friday at the Rockwell Standard plant gate in Oshkosh where Megellas greeted workmen, and ended at 6 a.m. Saturday at the plant gate of Kimberly - Clark in Neenah.

In between, Megellas visited the bershop in the basement of the Oshkosh B'Gosh, Inc. plant, cam-Menasha Hotel "Never pass up a paigned on the streets of Omro, barbershop," he said, "that's attended coffee hours at the homes where most of the local politics of Mrs. C. H. Keeber and Mrs. is discussed."

Paul Kimble in Omro, Mrs. Henry Bickerstaff and Mrs. Rufin Skiba in Neenah and at the Labor Hall in Oshkosh.

He walked the streets of Menasha, most of the business places, in-sha, Butte des Morts, Winnecon- Winchester and Oshkosh, ap-customer alike with, "Hello, I'm peared on a half-hour radio pro-gram in Neenah, caught the mid-candidate for congress."

He appeared pleased when peo-citizen, although only one person sluckner and A. Michael Sterr, recognized him when he walked him, putting up posters and pla-cards.

Couldn't Keep Up

Mrs. Aiden Grutzmacher Democratic candidate for Winne-bago County clerk Mrs. Grace Kalata, clerk of court candidate, also were soon left behind in the whirlwind tour.

Megellas appeared fresh and confident when he started his tour-tion. He said he was completely of Menasha shortly after 1 p.m. Friday. He had about four hours opponent Rep. William Van Pelt, sleep Thursday night after a big rally at Port Washington. "We had federal assistance to education a terrific turnout," Gansluckner said.

Megellas' first stop was the bar-

men and they generally asked more intelligent questions."

From Neenah he rushed to an-other coffee hour at the Labor Hall in Oshkosh. Megellas re-marked that he drank nine cups of coffee that morning and had shaken more than 1,500 hands. At noon, however, he switched over to a glass of buttermilk. "I could drink a quart of that," he remarked.

One of his methods of winning the ladies over is passing out cookbooks at coffee hours — not implying the ladies couldn't cook, he immediately stated.

From Oshkosh his convoy, re-duced to two cars by then, head-ed for Butte des Morts, some 25 minutes behind schedule. After briefly renewing his acquaintance with Mr. and Mrs. James Kontos, Jim's White House Inn, he was off down the street handing out pamphlets to everyone he met.

After a few minutes he was back in the car and headed for Winneconne where the process was repeated — a quick introduc-tion and a handshake. Few peo-ple appeared to recognize him, but many remarked of either hearing him on radio or seeing his advertisements on TV.

Talks With Customer

At Winchester Megellas stopped Gansluckner told him he had mis interpreted a question on how the Democrats planned to finance by this time it was nearing 6 o'clock and a scheduled stop at question too," he said, "I would Larsen was cancelled so he could like to have answered it."

The Democratic candidate was fast hurried into his car to make a little worried that not many street campaigning all over again people would be listening to the radio at that time. His aides had prepared several questions in case Counties.

Dot-Counting Winners Will Get Magnetic Fishing Game

BY CAPPY DICK

Boys and girls! Here's a new name, age and address. Cappy Dick contest prize! With your paints or crayons, It's a magnetic fishing game, decorate your entry in any neat. You may easily become a winner of this prize if you enter today's target puzzle contest.

Five magnetic fishing games will be awarded, one to each boy or girl who sends in one of the most neatly prepared, correct, contest entries.

The game consists of a 5 1/2-inch fish pole with a string attached. At the end of the string is a powerful little horseshoe magnet. Also there are two metal fish. The idea of the game is to try to catch the fish with the magnet. It's great fun. Furthermore, the magnet may be used in many other ways.

Here's how to enter the contest and try to become a prize winner:

Study the picture of the elves' target. Each dot represents a mark left by an arrow. How many dots are there?

Count them carefully; it is easy to miss a dot and it's also easy to count a dot more than one time. Be sure you do neither because accuracy in counting is one of the things for which entries will be judged.

When you believe you have correctly counted the dots, clip out the picture. Paste it on a sheet of paper or a postal card. Beneath it print the number of dots

Count the dots in this target for a prize.

In Cappy Dick at the Post-Crescent and mail it before midnight Friday.

UW Professor Defines Issues, Foreign Policy

Objectives Almost The Same as 1779, Speaker Declares

MENASHA — Campaign issues and the development of foreign policy, defined as the attitude that underlies the course of action one nation takes in regard to other nations generally or individually, were discussed by Prof. James R. Donoghue, University of Wisconsin political science department, Monday night.

Speaking at the fourth in a series of five lectures on the presidential campaign at University of Wisconsin Fox Valley Center, Prof. Donoghue said, "There are limits to what a foreign policy can do. What is important is a recognition of what it cannot do." It cannot make up for strength, if a nation does not have strength, he illustrated.

He called the foreign policy of the United States "not substantially different in 1960 from that of 1779." The fundamental objectives still exist, he said, listing the objectives as maintaining this country in something like its present condition, or survival, and promoting stability, progress, economic development and freedom abroad.

Achieving survival requires us to identify our friends and enemies, he explained. At the end of World War II, we were operating on the basis that threats to stability would come from the defeated powers on the assumption that the grand coalition that won the war would continue after the war. After independent moves by the Soviet Union, we have come to regard Russia as our main enemy, he said.

Red China

Commenting on underlying features of the policy, that of the rise of Red China, Prof. Donoghue reminded that for many years American policy was based on an independent, strong China. "What has happened is a strong and independent China, but not a friendly China."

He described current foreign policy as through diplomacy, if possible, to avoid war and if war comes to win at reasonable costs; to form alliances and defeat aggressors in limited areas, to weaken combinations of enemy strength. "We will never be able to afford the luxury of simply being against Communism," he warned, explaining our position on aid to Tito, as a weakening of enemy strength.

Listing the three great powers of the world as the United States, Russia and Red China, the speaker asked, "Is it in our interest to face a combination of Russia and China?" Since it is likely that Red China will be a nuclear power in a decade, should the United States attempt to drive a wedge between China and Russia, he asked. "Is this where the long term interests of the United States lie?"

Campaign Issues

Discussing the two presidential candidates positions on the offshore island, Quemoy and Matsu, he said both candidates took somewhat far out positions and then came back to the same position. "It's sort of like whether you prefer onions or olives in your martini." He said Senator Kennedy had the advantage of being forthright and called Nixon's point of view as "couching his emotionality on an untenable position." He explained Nixon went farther than the administration policy and "Eisenhower had to rescue Nixon to say they saw eye to eye."

Commenting on the broader campaign issues of prestige, the U-2 incident and leadership, the professor pointed out the last years of any administration do not enjoy the flush of reputation found in the earlier years. He said in relation to Soviet space achievements, the prestige of the United States could not help but fall because we no longer occupied a security first position. "We were good, but our opponent was catching up."

On the U-2 incident, the speaker said we are not to be criticized for getting the information, but what perplexed the professionals in the spy business was how it was handled. "It is standard to say 'no comment.'"

He said Khrushchev "chewed out the American president in a way the American president has never been chewed out before." Over this matter how could we not have lost prestige, at the best stayed even, he asked. Commenting on the Japanese protest over the Eisenhower visit and the Cuban situation, he said, "How in these circumstances can you maintain prestige has not suffered."

He said leadership in the final sense is lost in the mystery of personality, in the mysterious way in which the man responds to the presidency. On the issue of "who can talk back to Khrushchev" he said, it is hardly a reliable measure to judge the president for the next decade on the basis of his repartee with the Soviet premier.

Extend North-South Runway

Winnebago Board Okays $70,800 For Two County Airport Projects

OSHKOSH — Two airport projects costing Winnebago County $70,800 were approved by the board Monday. The projects, announced soon to the county since the federal audit was completed, are the March 7 and it takes about eight months before the money is paid back.

Staffeld Steinhilber

County Board Tuesday afternoon and included in the 1961 proposed budget.

Federal and state aid will be sought on one of the projects while the other will be paid entirely out of Winnebago County funds.

The one for which the county will pay the entire cost is to extend the north-south runway 360 feet at the south end and to put a turnaround pad there so airplanes can warm up their motors.

State and federal aid are being sought for construction of a taxiway parallel to the east-west runway and for expansion of the apron at the terminal building. This project is estimated at $130,000 with county costs coming to about $35,800. An extra $5,000 was added for a contingency.

Federal aid would be $65,000 and state aid would make up the balance of $29,200.

Taxiway Project
The taxiway will be 5,900 feet long and 50 feet wide and would be parallel to the extended east-west runway so that planes landing will have a taxiway to return to the terminal building rather than returning on the runway.

In its position for aid the aviation committee is pointing out it will permit greater utilization of the instrument landing system runway as well as enhance safety at the airport.

The apron extension will be 100 by 200 feet in size. Another phase of this project will be additional fencing at the airport.

The $30,000 project to add 360 feet to the north-south runway will be done by Winnebago County highway crews this year. The highway department has agreed to wait until next year for its money for the work, the board was advised by Supv. Alvin Staffeld, aviation committee chairman who presented the projects.

This work is the result of a recent meeting with the North Central Airlines manager and the chief pilots for Kimberly - Clark Corp., and Marathon Division of American Can Co., Harry Guest and Al Pinkley respectively. They agreed this would be of benefit to them.

Adds 2,600 Pounds
The north-south runway, now 4,800 feet long, will be extended to 5,160 feet. It will add 2,600 pounds to the payload of the Convair planes operated by North Central.

The airline is having difficulty taking off from the airport with a substantial load or payload, on "Common Sense" explained. The airline, Stocks and Their feels it can't afford to wait for Place in an In- this project to be scheduled as a vestment Pro- gram."

Graner, a specialist in the field of finance and investments, joined the University of Wisconsin faculty in 1948. Prof. Graner was appointed to the State Investment Board in 1951, a group which studies the investment policies for state funds.

Supv. E. G. Steinhilber, Oshkosh, added that the runway extension would permit Marathon's plane to take off with a full load. It now has to land at Milwaukee to take on a full load of gasoline before taking off on a long trip. It will help the Kimberly-Clark plane takeoffs as it will permit a full load for them also, he mentioned.

Steinhilber added that planes taking off heading south could take off with a full load, or payload, by having the runway extension but would have to cut back their load 1,000 pounds when taking off to the north because the planes would be heading over a residential area.

Await Test Results
Staffeld said that as soon as the results of the instrument landing system runway tests were determined the master plan could be approved and work could begin on the project to extend the east-west runway and build a flight control tower.

As for the $12,000 advanced by the county several years ago for the terminal building project, Staffeld replied that money should be one firm had the franchise, announced soon to the county since the federal audit was completed, are the March 7 and it takes about eight months before the money is paid back.

Supv. John Heigl, Neenah, thought a letter to the senators from Wisconsin might speed up the money since it has been owed the county for 2½ years.

During the discussion on the airport it was brought out the aviation committee has had two requests from persons wishing to build motels at the airport.

Hangar Costs
Asked by Supv. Arthur Struensee about the values of the Kimberly - Clark and Marathon hangars, Joseph Drexler, county board chairman, replied that the Kimberly - Clark hangar was built

Total revenues came to $34,522 while the expenses added up to $21,238 for the airport's maintenance and operation. Repairs and maintenance of the administration building came to $5,811, of the grounds to $3,702 and of the hangars to $1,699 while administration expenses were $7,591 and administration building outlays were $435.

OSHKOSH — Four persons were appointed to the board of directors of the Winnebago County Guidance Center by the County Board Monday afternoon to round out membership to nine persons.

Five County Board members had been named to the board of directors in August and the new members represent the general public.

Ike Joins Nixon, Lodge in Dramatic Drive for Votes

President Says GOP Ticket Offers 'Best Leadership Available Today'

NEW YORK (AP) — President Eisenhower took to the political whirlwind to Westchester County last night, joining Vice President Nixon and Henry Cabot Lodge today in a dramatic late-campaign bid to help them capture metropolitan votes.

The group teamed for the first time at campaign rallies spread over a wide area in and around New York City.

NEW YORK (AP) — The Republican rally in New York's enclaves tonight will be telecast by The National Broadcasting Co. from 7:30 to 8 p.m. local time. Participants include President Eisenhower, Vice President Richard M. Nixon, the Republican presidential nominee, and Henry Cabot Lodge, the vice presidential nominee.

New York City. Their fast-paced hop, ship and jump tour was by helicopter.

The kick-off took place in mid-morning at the giant Roosevelt Field Shopping Center in Nassau County, adjoining the eastern boundary of New York City on Long Island. From there they whirled to Westchester County north of the city. Both these areas are heavily Republican. The appearance of the president and the GOP candidates for president and vice president in the suburban spots, plus later gatherings in Manhattan, was obviously in an effort to garner as many stray votes as possible to offset the great Democratic weight in New York City.

Best Leadership
Eisenhower told a throng gathered in the sunny but windy outdoor area of Roosevelt field that Nixon and Lodge offer the nation "the finest type of leadership today that is available to the nation."

Police estimated the crowd on the field at 50,000. In Westchester County, where the candidates spoke from a platform at the county airport, officers put the figure at 25,000. In both places there were great cheers for the president and others.

In Westchester, Eisenhower as-

Asserts U.S. Force Could Repel Guantanamo Attack

Cuba Says It Can Abolish Lease on Navy Stronghold

Sharp Reply To Ike's View On Situation

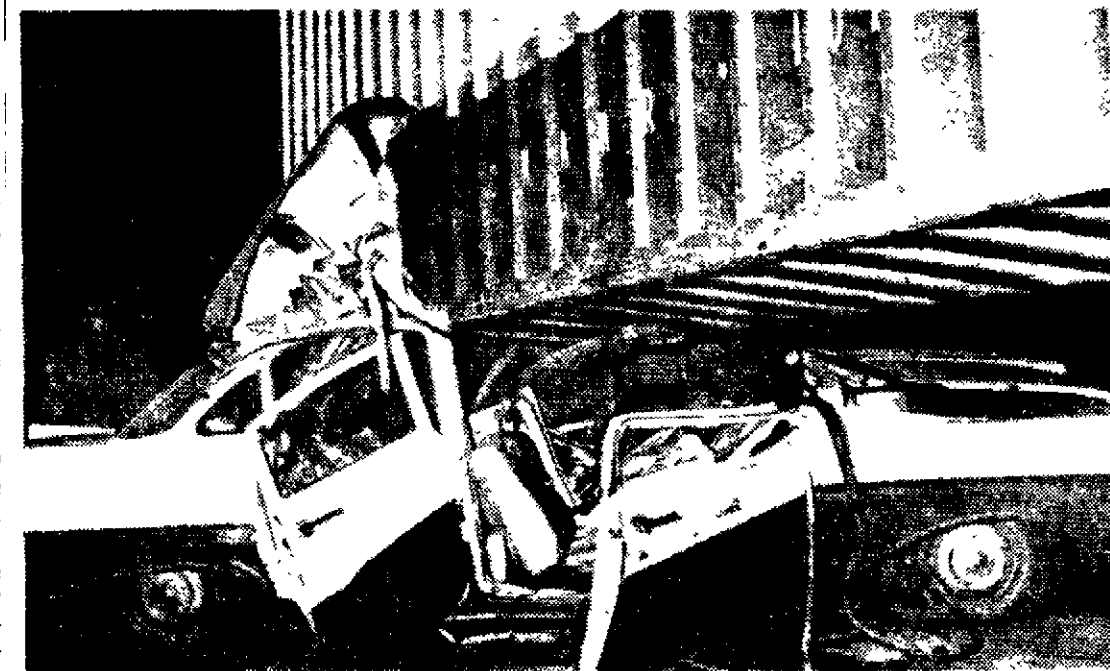

HAVANA (AP) — Cuban President Osvaldo Dorticos, in a sharp reply to President Eisenhower, implied last night that the U.S. lease on the naval base at Guantanamo can be abrogated by the Cuban people without United States consent.

President Eisenhower, in a statement yesterday, said the United States would take "whatever steps may be appropriate" to defend the base. He said the U.S. lease could be terminated or changed only by mutual agreement of the United States and Cuba.

Justly Aggression
Dorticos, in a speech to presidential palace employees, said Eisenhower's statement was designed "to justify armed aggression against our country" and supported the claims of Cuba's revolutionary regime that Washington is planning a faked incident at Guantanamo as a pretext for military action.

Eisenhower's contention that the lease could be changed or ended only by an accord between the two countries, the Cuban president continued, made it appear the Democratic agenda in 1961 is can't stand up to the American people, if he won't come and asking the President to go with him to Pittsburgh and Cleveland.

Civic Leader Dies in Crash Near Chilton

Manitowoc Woman Killed as Car Hits Semi-Trailer

Louis Erbe, 79, a prominent New Holstein civic leader and former Calumet County Board chairman, was killed instantly about 4:40 p.m. yesterday in a two-car collision on County Trunk H about four miles south of Chilton.

Another accident at Green Bay killed a Manitowoc woman. Erbe was the first embalmer in New Holstein. He was active in Masonic, municipal political and business affairs.

He was killed when his car skidded broadside into the path of a car driven by Mrs. Alois Halbach, 52, route 2, Chilton. The Halbach car struck the Erbe car, crushing the left side and throwing Erbe out of the right side door as the car spun after the crash.

Serious Condition

Mrs. Halbach and her daughter, Ruth, 11, are in serious condition at Calumet Memorial Hospital, Chilton. The girl suffered shock and severe facial and head injuries. Her head broke the windshield. Mrs. Halbach suffered a

Proposed Budget to Hike Tax Rate $2

Final Levy to be Decided At Public Hearing Nov. 15

BY REINHART WESSING Post-Crescent Staff Writer

A $2 hike in Appleton's tax rate for city and school purposes will be necessary if the proposed 1961 budget adopted by the council Tuesday remains unchanged.

If all departmental budgets had been approved as submitted, the rate boost would have been $2.65 per $1,000 of assessed valuation. The budget committee whittled that down to $1.10 by cutting spending and increasing anticipated income.

But Tuesday the council, sitting as a committee, of the whole to study the budget group's recommendations, increased proposed spending by $70,510 and decreased anticipated income by $39,399.

Salary Hikes

Proposed spending now totals $7,586,304 and anticipated income is $5,052,804, making the tax levy $4,533,775. This would make the city share of the tax rate $36.45 compared to $34.45 this year. State and county requests have to be added to get the total tax requirements.

About half of the increase in spending added by the council Tuesday will go for salary hikes effective Jan. 1.

All hourly paid employees will get an across-the-board 10 cents an hour raise. All salaried employees will get a $20 a month raise.

Elected city officials got a raise too, for the first time in three years. The mayor's salary goes up $1,000 a year to $10,500. The city clerk, treasurer and assessor each will get $500 a year more, bringing them all to $8,000. The city attorney will get $480 more, making his annual salary $6,680.

Aldermen also voted themselves a $20 a month raise, to $100. Total amount added into this

District Naval Commander Calls Situation Tense; 'We Can Hold for 72 Hours'

GUANTANAMO NAVY BASE, Cuba (AP)—The top N. S. naval commander in this area said today defense forces now at the U. S. naval base at Guantanamo bay should be able to repel any attack until reinforcements can be sent.

Rear Adm. Allen Smith, commander of the Caribbean's 10th Naval District, told visiting newsmen, "the situation is tense because we are in a position of waiting for someone else to do something."

The admiral emphasized the United States is not pursuing any aggressive acts against Prime Minister Fidel Castro's regime.

Castro has accused the U.S. government of planning some sort of provocative incident to give a pretext for American military intervention in Cuba. U.S. officials have denied the charge, but President Eisenhower warned in a statement Tuesday that because of the Guantanamo base's "importance to the defense of the entire hemisphere," the United States "will take whatever steps may be appropriate to defend the base."

Mine Fields
Smith disclosed that mine fields were planted along the boundary fence of the 45-square-mile Guantanamo reservation several weeks ago.

"The mine fields are labeled plainly," he said. "Dr. Castro has stepped up his tempo and we have taken steps accordingly. We have made our defense a little bit tighter."

Defending forces include a few hundred Marines, Marine and Navy fighter plane squadrons that come here for training purposes. Destroyers usually anchored in a bay or nearby waters, plus virtually every one of the several thousand military men on the base.

"We are hoping they will not bother us but we are ready if they do," said the admiral. "We would like to hold out at least for a 72-hour period."

Time Enough
This should be time enough for fighter outfits and ships from the United States and nearby Caribbean areas to arrive at Guantanamo.

Other officials responsible for the defense of the base recognize that acts short of open attack are possible.

Capt. C. W. Schoenweiss, acting commander of the base, was asked about the possibility of sabotage by Castro agents sneaking into the base or operating as part of the Cuban work force that comes in daily.

"It would make things unpleasant," Schoenweiss replied. "Between 3,000 and 4,000 Cubans work on the base."

"The danger is not so much of all-out attack as harassment and sabotage," said Schoenweiss. "I doubt Dr. Castro would see any wisdom in an all-out attack."

Doomed Ship's Pilot Was on Revoked Rating

FFA Says It Had Found Flier Showed Lack of Judgment

WASHINGTON (AP) — The pilot of a plane which crashed near Toledo, Ohio, with 22 deaths last weekend was using a pilot rating that had been ordered revoked, but was still pending appeal, officials reported.

The Federal Aviation Agency announced yesterday it had issued an order last July 15 revoking the airline pilot rating of Donald L. J. Chesher, the pilot who was killed with 21 others in the Arctic-Pacific Airlines plane mishap.

Chesher appealed the FAA order and it was stayed pending a decision by the Civil Aeronautics Board, which held a hearing last Aug. 23. James Springer, president of the airline, said the fatal flight was the first assigned to Chesher since the hearing.

Under Observation
During the interval, Springer said in Toledo last night, Chesher had been in Bolovia training C-46s for a new airline there. Between July 15 and the time he went on leave, Springer said, Chesher had been kept under observation.

Sixteen of those killed were members of the football team from California Polytechnic College at San Luis Obispo. Their bodies were flown back to California last night by the airline.

Refugee Charged With Half-Dozen Murders Dies

ELIZABETH, N. J. (AP) — Michael Fekecs, the Hungarian refugee charged with murdering six persons, died in Elizabeth General Hospital at 1:15 a.m. today after 3½ months in a coma.

Fekecs shot himself in the forehead July 12 as two policemen were closing in on him. He was brought to the hospital that day and died without ever regaining consciousness.

A hospital spokesman said his death was caused by a "general, steady deterioration" during that period.

Kennedy Promises Teacher Pay Raise

Puts School Construction Bill on List of High Priority Legislation

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sen. John F. Kennedy today pledged to stand Mr. Nixon spent two hours that next year a Democratic Congress and president "will enact a bill to raise teacher salaries."

The presidential candidate also said "One of the first items on the Democratic agenda in 1961 is the passage of an adequate bill for school construction."

He outlined these promises and others in the education field in a talk prepared for a "key to victory" breakfast, before hopping south to San Diego and then north to San Jose and San Francisco.

Kennedy's campaign explodes into a frenzied climax this week after his San Francisco appearance. He will fly to Phoenix, Ariz. Between now and election night he'll touch 16 states. A stop at Detroit, Mich. on Friday had to be dropped because it just couldn't be fitted into the tight schedule.

Mocking Note
A new and mocking note toward Vice President Richard M. Nixon again entered Kennedy's tone Tuesday, a kaleidoscopic day that brought him here from the East Coast to a mammoth downtown motorcade at noon.

The reception was hot, and so was one of the escorting police motorcycles. It hurt into roaring flames and set afire the carpet of ticker tape in the street. No one was hurt.

As he did the day before, Kennedy faulted Nixon for bungling President Eisenhower into the campaign in the closing days before the election next Tuesday.

At a rally at the Douglas Aircraft plant in Long Beach, Ken-

Big Ten Student Vote Gives Nixon Edge Over Kennedy

URBANA, Ill. — Students at seven Big Ten universities voted in a mock presidential election, giving Vice President Richard M. Nixon 21,034 votes to 15,058 for Sen. John F. Kennedy.

Each of the seven schools—Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Michigan, Northwestern, Ohio State and Wisconsin—returned a plurality in favor of the Republican nominee.

Minnesota, Michigan State and Purdue didn't participate in the voting. A University of Wisconsin student mock election Tuesday favored Nixon for president and Philip Kuehn for governor.

Similar Vote

The Republican presidential nominee received 3,940 votes and Kennedy, Democratic nominee John F. Kennedy, received 3,057 Republican votes at Illinois.

Gas Lines From Canadian Fields Opened

On hand at Marshfield yesterday for the opening of the new Canadian Natural Gas transmission pipeline were Gov. Nelson, Congressman Melvin Laird and officials from the three gas companies instrumental in the construction and development of the system.

Built at a cost exceeding $100 million, the new system probably will have important long-range effects on the Fox Cities. In a special article by David Schaefer, Post-Crescent staff writer, on Page C-5 of tonight's Post-Crescent, some of the possible future uses by the paper and other area industries are assessed.
